¡Bienvenidos a la clase de español! (Welcome to Spanish Class!)

During this course, you will learn a lot of new material. It is important that you begin some good habits right away. If you follow the suggestions below, you will learn easier and remember longer. Learning another language depends on how well you remember the material you learned before. You learn in steps. Each step depends on the step you learned before. If you skip a step, the next step is more difficult. Try to use the following ideas to learn:

- Make flashcards to learn new vocabulary. Write the Spanish word on one side and the English word on the other side. Practice them both ways. Look at the Spanish word and say the English word. Then, look at the English word and say the Spanish word.
- Copy the Spanish pronunciation you hear on tapes in your Spanish class. Imitate the accent as closely as you can. Always repeat out loud after listening to tapes.
- Every day, use at least 15 minutes of time to read over what you have done in class that day. You will be surprised at how much you remember if you do this. It also saves you some studying time before a test or quiz.
- After you learn some new information, try to speak in Spanish with someone else in the classroom. This is easier to do when you are not in the classroom, but in the hallway or outside the school. That way, you can both practice.
- Do not skip any assignments. If you do not understand the assignment, please ask the teacher for an explanation. Solve those problems immediately. That way, the next assignment will be easier.
- Pay attention to the things you learn about Spanish culture. They often give you a mental picture. This picture can help give you insight into language.

Let's begin! Remember the suggestions above and try to follow them. Practice every day and enjoy your time in the classroom.

¡Buena suerte! Good luck!

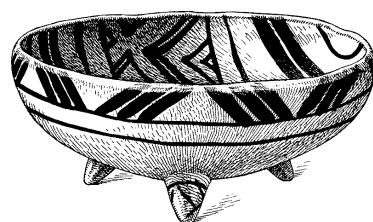

Unit 1: Welcome to the Spanish-Speaking World

This unit emphasizes the alphabet, greetings, numbers 0-59, dates, months, seasons, punctuation, and time.

Unit Focus

Communication

- Express likes and dislikes when asked simple questions (e.g., about toys or other objects). (FL.A.1.1.1)
- Greet others and exchange essential personal information (e.g., home address, telephone number, place of origin, and general health). (FL.A.1.1.2)
- Use appropriate gestures and expressions (i.e., body language) to complete or enhance verbal messages. (FL.A.1.1.3)
- Express likes or dislikes regarding various objects, categories, people, and events present in the everyday environment. (FL.A.1.2.1)
- Use repetition, rephrasing, and gestures effectively to assist in communicating spoken messages. (FL.A.1.3.4)
- Follow and give simple instructions (e.g., instructions to participate in games or instructions provided by the teacher for classroom tasks). (FL.A.2.1.1)
- Restate and rephrase simple information from materials presented orally, visually, and graphically in class. (FL.A.2.1.2)
- Listen and read in the target language and respond through role playing, drawing, or singing. (FL.A.2.1.4)

- Organize information in spoken or written form about a variety of topics of academic and cultural interest (e.g., by making lists, categorizing objects, or organizing concepts). (FL.A.2.2.3)
- Comprehend and respond to oral messages (e.g., personal anecdotes or narratives) based on familiar themes and vocabulary. (FL.A.2.2.5)

Culture

- Participate in age-appropriate cultural activities (e.g., games, songs, birthday celebrations, storytelling, dramatizations, and role playing). (FL.B.1.1.1)
- Recognize various activities and celebrations in which children participate in the target culture (e.g., games, songs, birthday celebrations, storytelling, dramatizations, and role playing). (FL.B.1.2.1)

Connections

- Use simple vocabulary and phrases to identify familiar objects and concepts from other disciplines. (FL.C.1.1.1)
- Participate in activities in the language class designed to integrate content-area concepts (e.g., mathematical calculations or cause-and-effect relationships) into target-language instruction (e.g., about countries or cultures). (FL.C.1.2.1)
- Use target-language vocabulary or concepts to reinforce knowledge of a related topic studied in another class (e.g., geographical place names, parts of the body, or basic mathematical operations). (FL.C.1.2.2)
- Use the target language to gain access to information that is only available through the target language or within the target culture (listen to a story told in the target language). (FL.C.2.1.1)

Comparisons

- Use simple vocabulary and short phrases in the target language. (FL.D.1.1.2)
- Recognize the similarities and differences between his or her native language and the target language in terms of the pronunciation, alphabet, and forms of written expression. (FL.D.1.2.2)
- Distinguish the similarities and differences between the patterns of behavior of the target culture related to recreation, holidays, celebrations and the patterns of behavior of the local culture. (FL.D.2.2.1)
- Recognize forms of the target language evident in the local culture (e.g., signs, symbols, advertisements, packages, displays, murals, songs, and rhymes). (FL.D.2.2.2)

Experiences

- Know that many people in the United States use languages other than English on a daily basis. (FL.E.1.2.1)
- Demonstrate an awareness of employment possibilities (and other applications) for those who are able to master the target language. (FL.E.1.2.2)

Unit 1: Welcome to the Spanish-Speaking World

Overview

Spanish is spoken by over 340 million people in the world today. Spanish is the second world language of international communication. The first Spanish-speaking country was Spain. Spanish is also spoken in 19 Latin American countries, in parts of Africa, and the Philippines. In the United States, about one out of every 10 residents speaks Spanish.

In this unit you will learn the following:

- numbers 0-59 (los números)
- alphabet (el alfabeto, el abecedario)
- punctuation (la puntuación)
- greetings and goodbyes (los saludos y las despedidas)
- months of the year (los meses del año)
- days of the week (los días de la semana)
- dates (las fechas)
- seasons (las estaciones)
- time (la hora).

Introduction

¡Bienvenidos a la clase de español! Welcome to Spanish Class!

As you learn another language, you also learn about the people who speak the language and where they live. You learn about their traditions and contributions to the world. You also learn to reflect upon yourself and your family's way of life and traditions. During this course, you will learn a lot of new material. It is important that you begin some good habits right away. If you follow the suggestions below, you will learn more easily and remember longer. Learning another language depends on how well you remember. You learn in steps. One step depends on the previous step. If you skip a step, the next step is more difficult. Try the following strategies:

- Make flashcards to learn new vocabulary. Write the Spanish word on one side of the card and the English word on the other side. Practice the words both ways. Look at the Spanish word and say the English word. Then look at the English word and say the Spanish word.
- Listen and repeat as the teacher models the Spanish words and phrases. Imitate the accent as closely as you can.
- Every day, spend at least 15 minutes reading over what you have done in class that day. You will be surprised at how much you remember if you just do this. This also saves you study time before a test or quiz.
- After you learn something new, practice it with someone else in the class. This may be easier to do when you are not in the class but in the hallway, at lunch, or after school. This way you can both practice.

- Do not skip any assignments. If you do not understand the assignment, please ask your teacher for an explanation. Solve problems immediately. This way, the next material you learn will fall into place.
- Pay attention to the things you learn about the Spanish culture. This will often give you a mental picture. This picture can help give you an insight into language.

Let's begin! Remember the suggestions above and follow them. Practice every day and enjoy your time learning Spanish.

¡Buena suerte! Good luck!

México, el Caribe, Centroamérica, y Sudamérica

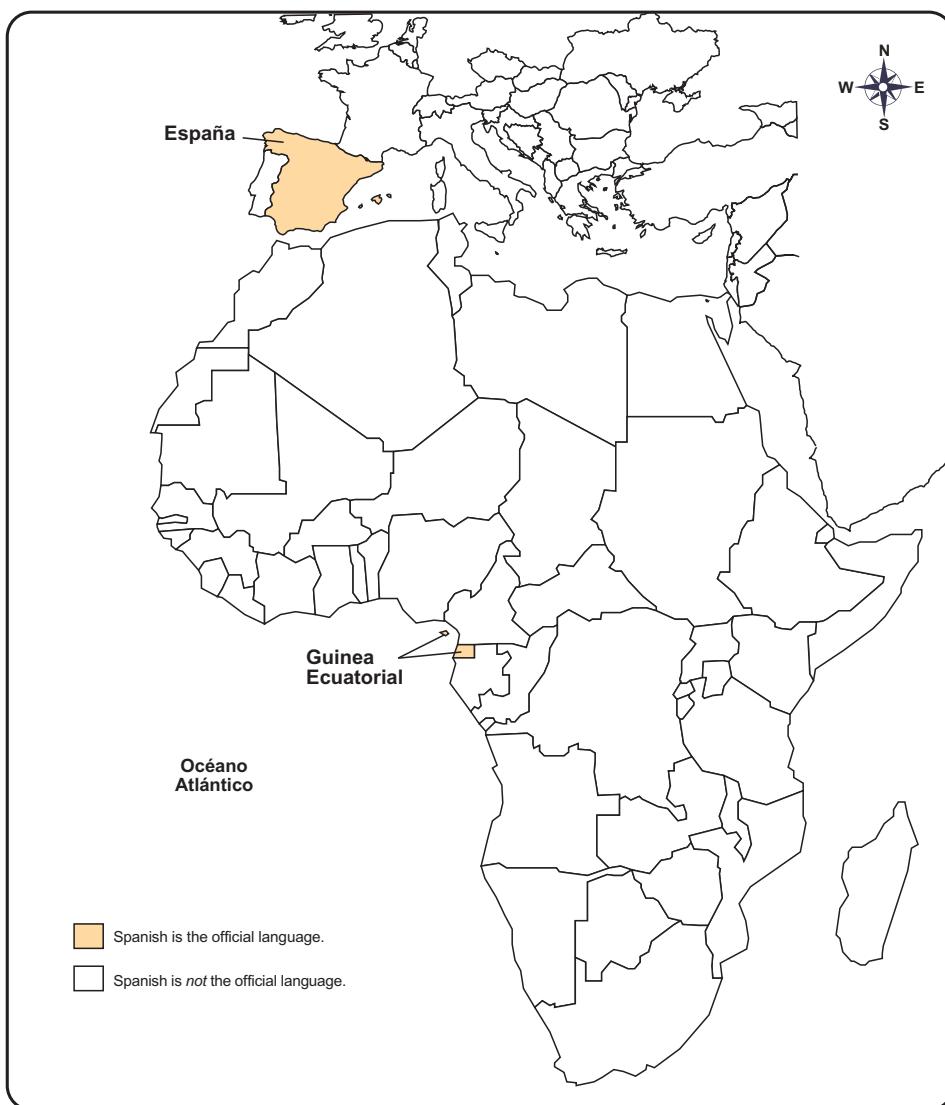

Please note that Brazil, Guyana, Suriname, French Guyana, and Belize are the only countries in Central America and South America where Spanish is not spoken. In Brazil, Portuguese is the official language. English is the official language of Guyana and Belize. Dutch is the official language of Suriname and French is the official language of French Guyana.

Where Spanish Is the Official Language—Europe and Africa

Europa y África

The first Spanish-speaking country in the world was Spain. Spanish is spoken in two dialects in Spain—Castilian and Andalusian. Spain conquered many countries around the world and those countries became Spanish-speaking countries. Also, the official language of Equatorial Guinea in Africa is Spanish.

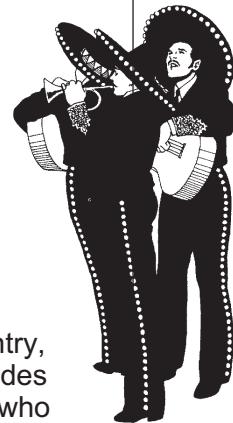

Los números (Numbers)

This section introduces the names of the numbers 0-59 in Spanish. You may already know many of these numbers in Spanish. For example, have you ever heard of the card game Uno (One) or of the celebration Cinco de Mayo (Fifth of May)?

Cinco de Mayo (Fifth of May)

Many people believe that May 5 is the anniversary of Mexican independence, but they are wrong. Mexico's Independence Day is September 16. Cinco de Mayo, the fifth of May, is the holiday that honors a small Mexican victory over the French at the Battle of Puebla in 1862. Although in the end the Mexican army was defeated, the victory of "La Batalla de Puebla" came to symbolize Mexican unity and patriotism.

Today, Cinco de Mayo is celebrated throughout the country, but especially in Puebla and in Mexico City. Military parades are held to pay respect to heroes, soldiers, and civilians who gave their lives for their countries. Schools also take part in the parades, which require months of preparation. Cinco de Mayo ends with the traditional shouts of ¡Viva México! and people looking forward to the next national holiday: El 16 de Septiembre Día de la Independencia de México.

Think of other Spanish numbers you may have seen in movies or heard in songs. The following pages begin our journey to learning Spanish. Get ready to practice!

El dinero (Money)

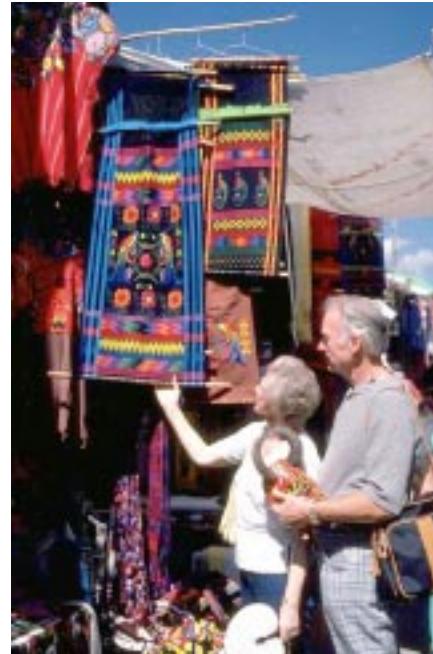

When we purchase things in the United States, we use dollars (dólares). However, when you travel, you must check to see what currency, or money, each country uses. There are many countries where Spanish is spoken, but they use different currencies. And even though countries may have currencies with the same name, the value is different.

Here is a list of some countries and the currency, or money, they use.

Country	Currency
Puerto Rico	el dólar
Spain	el Eurodólar
Perú	el sol
Guatemala	el quetzal
Ecuador	el dólar
El Salvador, Costa Rica	el colón
Venezuela	el bolívar
Panamá	el balboa / el dólar
Honduras	el lempira
Nicaragua	el córdoba
Paraguay	el guaraní
Argentina	el peso
Colombia	el peso
México	el peso
Chile	el peso
Cuba	el peso
Dominican Republic	el peso
Uruguay	el peso

Shopping in a Spanish-speaking country has its differences also. You may see prices such as 25,50 or 10,15. Notice that in many Spanish-speaking countries, the use of the comma and the decimal point is reversed. The number 2,000 in Spanish is written 2.000.

Shopping in a Spanish-speaking country has its differences.

Jobs Needing Spanish-Speaking People

Look at the jobs listed. There are many jobs that need Spanish-speaking people. Before you make a career choice, it is wise to talk with as many people as you can about the jobs they do. Find out if they like their jobs and what is required to do their jobs. Look at the want ads. In many parts of the country, there are many jobs that need Spanish-speaking people.

El alfabeto (Alphabet)

In Spanish, el alfabeto is also called el abecedario. When you pronounce the first four letters of the alphabet, you will see why. None of their letters are different from English. However, there are some double letters that are considered to be separate letters of the alphabet.

Note: In Spanish dictionaries or directories, entries beginning with the letter ñ are listed separately. Before 1994, entries for CH and LL were also listed as separate “letters.” The Association of Spanish Language Academies voted to eliminate the separate listings. These letters are now listed under C and L. Other sources say that the RR is a sound and not a separate letter of the alphabet.

Also note that only three consonants can be doubled in a Spanish word—C, L, and R.

Listen as the teacher models the alphabet in Spanish. Look at the letters below as each one is pronounced.

escuchen (listen)

A B C CH D E F G H I J K L LL M
N Ñ O P Q R RR S T U V W X Y Z

This time, listen and repeat the letters.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

The letters of the alphabet are always pronounced the same way. Only one letter is silent, and that is the letter H. Once you know the sounds the letters make, it is easy to figure out how to pronounce a word.

Spelling Words in Spanish

Here is how the number dos would be spelled in Spanish: d, o, s. What about words with accent marks? When spelling words in Spanish, accent marks are considered to be part of the word. Therefore, note the following:

- If a letter has an accent mark over it, you add the words con acento after the letter if you are spelling it out loud. For example, the word dólar would be spelled d, o con acento, l, a, r. The accent mark is used over vowels to show that the syllable is stressed. Accent marks are considered to be part of spelling, and should not be omitted.
- The tilde (~) mark over the n (as in señor) indicates the ny sound (like the English word, canyon).

Ana: Fine, thanks. And you?

Paco: Bien, gracias.

Paco: Fine, thanks.

Ana: Adiós, Paco.

Ana: Goodbye, Paco.

Paco: Adiós, Ana. Hasta luego.

Paco: Goodbye, Ana. See you later.

Now, listen and repeat the dialogue again.

Do the following. While speaking in Spanish, use appropriate gestures and expressions.

1. In Spanish, greet the people sitting around you.
2. Now ask how they are.
3. Then say goodbye to them.

La puntuación (Punctuation)

You will notice that punctuation in Spanish sometimes appears different from English. In Spanish, a question mark and an exclamation are put at the beginning of the sentence as well as at the end. They are written upside down at the beginning of a question or an exclamation. This gives you a clue as to how to read the sentence. You know ahead of time if you should raise your voice at the end of the sentence or if you should speak in an excited tone of voice.

Remember: Accent marks are part of spelling and should not be omitted.

Práctica (Practice)

Put punctuation marks, accent marks, and capital letters in the following sentences. Refer to pages 67-68 as needed.

1. hola marta _____

Los días de la semana (Days of the Week)

There are a couple of things about the days of the week that are different from English. First, you will notice that the days are not capitalized unless they are the first word of a sentence. This is because the days are not considered proper nouns.

Los días de la semana—Days of the Week

lunes	Monday martes	Tuesday
miércoles	Wednesday jueves	Thursday viernes	Friday
sábado	Saturday
domingo	Sunday

Second, if you compare an English calendar to a Spanish calendar (calendario), you will notice that the first day of the week on a Spanish calendar is Monday (lunes), not Sunday (domingo). Sunday is the last day of the week.

When someone wants to know what day it is, they ask the following:

¿Qué día es hoy? (What day is today?)

Your answer could be as follows:

Hoy es miércoles. (Today is Wednesday.)

Práctica (Practice)

Los meses del año (Months of the Year)

In Spanish, the months of the year are not considered proper nouns. They are not capitalized unless they are the first word of a sentence, just as the days of the week are not capitalized when written in Spanish.

Los meses del año—Months of the Year

enero	January febrero	February marzo	March
abril	April
mayo	May
junio	June
julio	July
agosto	August
septiembre	September
octubre	October
noviembre	November
diciembre	December

La fecha (The Date)

If you wanted to know the date, you would ask the following:

¿Cuál es la fecha? (What is the date?) or ¿Cuál fecha es hoy? (What is the date today?)

Your answer could be as follows:

Hoy es el quince de septiembre. (Today is the 15th of September.)

When you want to give the date, you say the following:

Es el (cardinal number—such as 5) de (month):

Es el cinco de mayo.
It is the fifth of May.

The only date that has a different rule is the first of the month. You use the ordinal number—first.

Es el primero de noviembre.
It is November first.

The date is written with the number of the day first, followed by the number of the month in Spanish speaking countries.

el dos de mayo = 2/5

Las estaciones (Seasons)

In South America, south of the equator, the seasons of the year are the opposite of those in North America. For example, December is considered a summer month in South America and June, July, and August are winter months! Most schools are out during summer vacation but that vacation is during November, December, and January.

* In South America, south of the equator, the seasons of the year are the opposite of those in North America.

In the 16th century, el corrido, or the song, “De colores” (Of Colors) came to the Americas from central Spain. It is a song about the beautiful colors of the fields in spring. “De colores” is now sung all over the Spanish-speaking world on special occasions and celebrations. The song is also the anthem of the United Farm Workers Union of America, a union founded by César Chávez (1927-1993). People hold hands and sway while singing this beautiful song.

El corrido in Mexico is known as a narrative song, or ballad. In el corrido, the characters, events, and themes represent the local communities’ cultural history. El corrido is a form of folk art and is part oral history.

On the following pages are the words to the song “De colores” for you to see and practice after your teacher reads it to you. You may want to search for “De colores” on the Internet so you can listen to the song.

Práctica (Practice)

Listen as the teacher models the following version of the words to the song "De colores" in Spanish.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

De colores Of Colors

De colores, de colores se visten los campos en la primavera.

Of colors, colors the fields in the spring get dressed.

De colores, de colores son los pajaritos que vienen de afuera.

Of colors, colors they are the little birds that come from outside.

De colores, de colores es el arco iris que vemos lucir.

Of colors, colors it is the rainbow that we see shine.

Y por eso los grandes amores de muchos colores, me gustan a mí.

And for that reason the great loves of many colors, they please me.

Y por eso los grandes amores de muchos colores, me gustan a mí.

And for that reason the great loves of many colors, they please me.

Canta el gallo, canta el gallo con el quiri, quiri, quiri, quiri, quiri.

The rooster sings, sings the rooster with kiri, kiri, kiri, kiri, kiri.

La gallina, la gallina con el cara, cara, cara, cara, cara.

The hen, the hen with kara, kara, kara, kara, kara.

Los pollitos, los pollitos con el pío, pío, pío, pío, pí.

The chicks, the chicks with pío, pío, pío, pío, pí.

Y por eso los grandes amores de muchos colores, me gustan a mí.

And for that reason the great loves of many colors, they please me.

Y por eso los grandes amores de muchos colores, me gustan a mí.

And for that reason the great loves of many colors, they please me.

De colores, de colores brillantes y finos se viste la aurora.

Of colors, colors in colors brilliant and fine is clothed the dawn.

De colores, de colores son los mil reflejos que el sol atesora.

Of colors, colors they are the thousand reflections that the sun possesses.

De colores, de colores es el diamante que vemos lucir.

Of colors, colors the diamond gets dressed that we see shine.

Y por eso los grandes amores de muchos colores, me gustan a mí.

And for that reason the great loves of many colors, they please me.

Y por eso los grandes amores de muchos colores, me gustan a mí.

And for that reason the great loves of many colors, they please me.

Now, listen and repeat the song again.

El tiempo (Weather)

Florida and northeastern Argentina are miles apart and on different continents, but they both have a similar climate. The average monthly temperature and rainfall in Florida and Argentina's Corrientes province follow a similar pattern. However, the seasonal rainfall is higher in the spring in Argentina and higher in the summer in Florida.

Look below at the cluster web below to see how to describe different weather conditions in Spanish.

¿Qué hora es? (What Time Is It?)

Telling Time

If you know the numbers one through 59, you are ready to tell time in Spanish.

In Spanish, there is no way to say “o’clock.”

- Es la una is used only for one o’clock and the minutes after one because one is singular.
- Son las is used for every other time on the clock because two or more is plural.

Es la una.

Son las dos.

Son las tres.

Son las cuatro.

Son las cinco.

Son las seis.

Minutes can be added simply by separating them from the hour using y, the word for and.

Using y to Separate Hour from Minutes

Es la una.	It is 1:00.
Es la una y dos.	It is 1:02.
Son las tres.	It is 3:00.
Son las tres y diecinueve.	It is 3:19.

Minutes can be subtracted from the hour as well, using menos (minus or less). It is customary to use menos to tell time during the second half of the hour by stating the number of minutes until the following hour.

Using menos (Minus or Less) Minutes

Es la una menos diez.	It is 12:50.
Es la una menos cinco.	It is five minutes till one.

To indicate the half hour, use media. Use cuarto to indicate the quarter hours.

Using media (Half) and cuarto (Quarter) Hours

Es la una y media.	It is 1:30.
Son las cuatro y media.	It is 4:30.
Es la una y cuarto.	It is 1:15.
Son las cuatro y cuarto.	It is 4:15.

Useful Time Expressions

Son las tres y cuarto en punto.	It is 3:15 on the dot.
Salimos a las nueve.	We leave at 9:00.
¿Qué hora es?	What time is it?
Es medianoche.	It is midnight.

Useful Time-Related Expressions

por la mañana	in the morning (por la = no specific time)
de la mañana	in the morning (de la = specific time)

por la tarde	in the afternoon (por la = no specific time)
de la tarde	in the afternoon (de la = specific time)

por la noche	in the evening or night (por la = no specific time)
de la noche	in the evening or night (de la = specific time)

al mediodía	at noon
a la medianoche	at midnight

la mañana or mañana	morning or tomorrow
mañana por la mañana	tomorrow morning
pasado mañana	the day after tomorrow
ayer	yesterday

anoche	last night
la semana pasada	last week
el año pasado	last year

el domingo que viene	next Sunday
la semana que viene	next week
el año que viene	next year

Práctica (Practice)

Use the list below to tell what time it is on the following clocks. The first one has been done for you.

es la una	son las cuatro	son las dos	son las seis
son las cinco	son las diez	son las nueve	son las tres

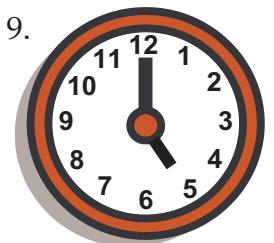

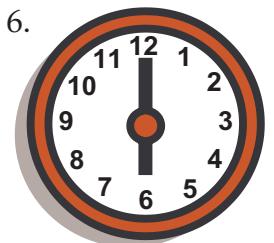

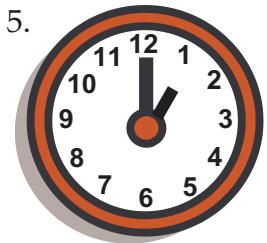

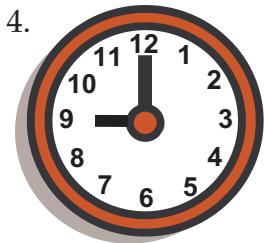

Son las siete.

Unit 2: Using Spanish in Your Community

This unit emphasizes nouns, plurals, definite article (the) and indefinite articles (a and an), and the verb to be.

Unit Focus

Communication

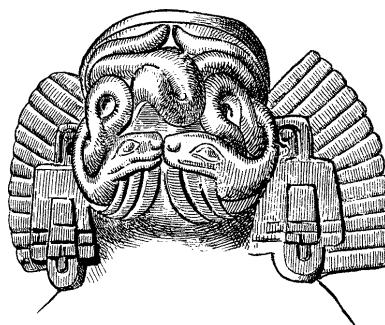

- Greet others and exchange essential personal information (e.g., home address, telephone number, place of origin, and general health). (FL.A.1.1.2)
- Restate and rephrase simple information from materials presented orally, visually, and graphically in class. (FL.A.2.1.2)
- Provide simple information in spoken form (e.g., descriptions of family members, friends, objects present in his or her everyday environment, or common school and home activities). (FL.A.3.1.1)

Culture

- Recognize patterns of social behavior or social interaction in various settings (e.g., school, family, or immediate community). (FL.B.1.1.2)
- Recognize various familiar objects and norms of the target culture (e.g., toys, dresses, and typical foods). (FL.B.1.1.3)

Connections

- Use simple vocabulary and phrases to identify familiar objects and concepts from other disciplines. (FL.C.1.1.1)

Comparisons

- Know examples of word borrowing from one language to another. (FL.D.1.1.1)
- Use simple vocabulary and short phrases in the target language. (FL.D.1.1.2)
- Identify examples and understand the significance of true and false cognates (i.e., words derived from a common original form). (FL.D.1.2.1)
- Recognize the similarities and differences between his or her native language and the target language in terms of the pronunciation, alphabet, and forms of written expression. (FL.D.1.2.2)

Experiences

- Know that many people in the United States use languages other than English on a daily basis. (FL.E.1.2.1)

Unit 2: Using Spanish in Your Community

Overview

You are living in one of the major Spanish-speaking countries right now, where millions of people speak Spanish—the United States! You can hear Spanish in many places in your community—in school, at the mall, on television, as you travel, and at work. Once you learn how to use the Spanish language in class, you will see the thread that links the cultures together and forms our diverse culture in the United States.

In this unit you will learn the following:

- names of objects
- how to make a word plural
- the words for the (el, la, los, las)
- the words for a, an, and some (un, una, unos, unas)
- pronouns
- is, am, and are (estar).

Look-Alike and Sound-Alike Words: Cognates—True or False

Spanish and English have many words that are similar. One reason for this is because Spanish is a Romance language. A Romance language is one that comes from Latin, the language of the ancient Romans. The English language shows Latin influences because Britain was part of the Roman Empire, as was Spain. Another reason is because much of the United States was first settled by Spaniards, and their descendants are now American. Therefore, the Spanish and English languages have thousands of cognates—words that look and sound alike in more than one language.

Many cognates often have the same meaning.

Examples of cognates:

Spanish	English	Spanish	English
color	color	inteligente	intelligent hospital	hospital	positivo	positive
dentista	dentist	delicioso	delicious
optimista	optimistic	horrible	horrible
imposible	impossible	excelente	excellent
rápido	rapid	presentar	present

However, please be aware that some cognates may fool you. Such cognates are called false cognates. False cognates are words that look the same (or almost the same) but have different meanings.

Examples of false cognates:

English	meaning	Spanish	meaning pan	cooking dish	pan	bread bizarre	strange	bizarro	brave
exit	the way out	éxito	success
pretender	faker	pretender	to try
tuna	fish	tuna	prickly pear

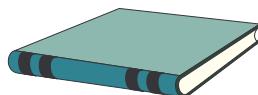

Making Nouns Plural

It's easy to make nouns plural in Spanish. Here are the basic rules:

- A noun ending in a vowel (a, e, i, o, u) is made plural by adding an -s.

Example: libro → libros

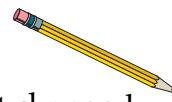

- A noun ending in a consonant (any letter that is not a vowel) is made plural by adding an -es.

Example: papel → papeles

- A noun ending in -z is made plural by changing the -z to -c, then adding -es.

Example: lápiz → lápices

- A noun that ends in -s when it is singular is not changed for the plural form.

Example: sacapuntas → sacapuntas

In the practice on the following page, we will use some Spanish and English nouns that are cognates—words that look and sound alike. This will help to increase your Spanish vocabulary as you use the rules above to make the nouns plural.

Práctica (Practice)

Make the following Spanish nouns plural. One or more of the words below are cognates.

Remember: Cognates are words that you can understand because the words look or sound like English words.

Review the basic rules for making Spanish nouns plural.

- A noun ending in a vowel (a, e, i, o, u) is made plural by adding an -s.
- A noun ending in a consonant (any letter that is not a vowel) is made plural by adding an -es.
- A noun ending in -z is made plural by changing the -z to -c, then adding -es.
- A noun that ends in -s when it is singular is not changed for the plural form.

Gender of Nouns

In Spanish all nouns have gender. Gender means sex, male or female. All nouns in Spanish are referred to as being masculine or feminine, even words that do not refer to people. That does not mean that a pencil is a man or a chair is a woman. What determines gender is spelling, although there are a few exceptions. When you studied the words on the previous pages, you may have noticed that most nouns end in -a, -o, -l, -n, or a few combinations of letters such as -ión. Gender is determined by how a noun ends in Spanish. It is important to know the gender of nouns because other words in the sentence will depend on that gender for their spelling, as you will see later.

While there are some exceptions, there is a way to know gender with accuracy. For the most part, nouns that end in these letters are usually masculine:

masculine

L O N E R S MA

Examples of masculine:

papel, cuaderno, tiburón (shark), pupitre, profesor, sacapuntas, and poema (poem)

Nouns that end in the following letters are usually feminine:

feminine

D IÓN Z A

Examples of feminine:

ciudad (city), nación (nation), luz (light), and puerta

There are some exceptions to this rule. There are only a few, so it is easy to learn them. Remember, they take the opposite gender of what you may think.

mapa is masculine lápis is masculine foto is feminine moto is feminine

El, la, los, y las (The)—Definite Articles

There are four words for the word the in Spanish. These words are called definite articles. For example, if I said, “I read the book,” the is a definite article because the refers to a particular book. The definite article you use in Spanish depends on two things:

1. whether the noun is masculine or feminine
2. whether the noun is singular or plural.

Here are some masculine nouns that are singular:

el cuaderno
el libro
el alumno
el lápiz
el sacapuntas
el profesor
el estante

As you can see, the Spanish word el means the and is used only in front of a noun that is masculine and singular. When these masculine words become plural, you must make the word the plural as well. The way to do that is to change the word el to the word los.

Here are the same nouns in the plural:

los cuadernos
los libros
los alumnos
los lápices
los sacapuntas
los profesores
los estantes

Now let's take a look at the feminine nouns. The Spanish word la is used in front of a feminine noun that is singular to mean the. Look at these feminine nouns:

la profesora
la silla
la puerta
la página
la regla
la ventana
la estudiante

When these nouns are plural, the word la is changed to las and becomes plural also.

Compare these feminine nouns that are plural with the ones above that are singular:

las profesoras
las sillas
las puertas
las páginas
las reglas
las ventanas
las estudiantes

Práctica (Practice)

Below are some ways the definite article the—el, los, la, and las—is used with masculine and feminine singular and plural nouns.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

el with masculine nouns that are singular:

- el cuaderno
- el libro
- el alumno
- el lápiz
- el sacapuntas
- el profesor
- el estante

los with masculine nouns that are plural:

- los cuadernos
- los libros
- los alumnos
- los lápices
- los sacapuntas
- los profesores
- los estantes

la with feminine nouns that are singular:

- la profesora
- la silla
- la puerta
- la página
- la regla
- la ventana
- la estudiante

las with feminine nouns that are plural:

las profesoras
las sillas
las puertas
las páginas
las reglas
las ventanas
las estudiantes

Now, listen and repeat again.

Práctica (Practice)

Determine if each Spanish noun is masculine or feminine and singular or plural. Use the list below to write the correct definite article in front of each noun. Terms will be used more than once.

la	las

1. _____ colegio
2. _____ mochilas
3. _____ pupitres
4. _____ mapa
5. _____ puertas
6. _____ alumnos
7. _____ calculadoras
8. _____ lápices
9. _____ banderas
10. _____ página
11. _____ escritorios
12. _____ radios
13. _____ ventanas
14. _____ diccionario
15. _____ profesora

Práctica (Practice)

Listen as the teacher reads the words below. For each word read, place a check mark on the chart below under the correct Spanish word for the—el, la, los, or las—that you should use with the word.

- | | |
|----------------|----------------|
| 1. bolígrafos | 5. mapa |
| 2. profesora | 6. escritorios |
| 3. diccionario | 7. página |
| 4. banderas | 8. sacapuntas |

Example: Listening to the teacher say, “puerta,” you would place a check mark under the column labeled la by the number of the word read, or, in this case, by the word example. See the check mark below.

escuchen (listen):

Example:	el	la	los	las
2.
3.
4.
5.
6.

Un, una, unos, y unas (A, An, and Some)—Indefinite Articles

As you know from the last section, el, la, los, and las mean the. We are now going to look at the words that mean a, an, or some. These words are called indefinite articles. For example, if I said, “I read a book,” a is an indefinite article because a does not refer to a particular book. Once again, the indefinite article you use in Spanish depends upon gender—whether the noun is masculine or feminine and whether the noun is singular or plural.

Look at these examples:

un lápiz	Tengo un lápiz.	I have a pencil.
una calculadora	Tengo una calculadora.	I have a calculator.

As you can see, un is used for a or an in front of a masculine noun that is singular.

un cuaderno	a notebook
un libro	a book
un profesor	a teacher (male)

Una is used in front of a feminine noun that is singular. Review your rules concerning gender if you do not understand the following examples:

una silla	a chair
una ventana	a window
una profesora	a teacher (female)

In front of a plural noun, the words unos and unas are used to mean some.

unos cuadernos	some notebooks
unos libros	some books
unos profesores	some teachers (males)

Unos is used before masculine plural nouns, and unas is used before a noun that is feminine plural. Look at the following examples:

unas sillas	some chairs
unas ventanas	some windows
unas profesoras	some teachers (females)

Práctica (Practice)

Below are some ways the indefinite articles a, an, and some—un, unos, una, and unas—are used with masculine and feminine singular and plural nouns.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

un with masculine nouns that are singular:

- un cuaderno a notebook
- un libro a book
- un profesor a teacher (male)

unos with masculine nouns that are plural:

- unos cuadernos some notebooks
- unos libros some books
- unos profesores some teachers (males)

una with feminine nouns that are singular:

- una silla a chair
- una ventana a window
- una profesora a teacher (female) unas with feminine nouns that are plural:

- unas sillas some chairs
- unas ventanas some windows
- unas profesoras some teachers (females)

Now listen and repeat again.

Hay (There Is or There Are)

The word hay in Spanish means there is or there are. In a question, the word hay means is there or are there?

¿Cuántos libros hay?

How many books are there?

Hay un libro en la mesa.

There is one book on the table.*

Hay dos libros en la mesa.

There are two books on the table.*

¿Cuántas profesoras hay?

How many teachers (female) are there?

Hay tres profesoras en la clase.

There are three teachers (females) in the class.*

Práctica (Practice)

Determine if each Spanish noun is masculine or feminine and singular or plural. Use the list below to write the correct indefinite article in front of each noun. Terms will be used more than once.

6. a book bag

7. the bookcase

8. some rulers

9. a pencil

10. the window

Subject Pronouns

Subject pronouns are the words we use to talk about or address people when we do not use their names. You do not refer to yourself by your first name when you talk about the things you do. Instead, you call yourself I. These are subject pronouns. In Spanish, the pronouns used are the following:

The grid contains nine illustrations, each with a subject pronoun label and a descriptive subtitle:

- yo / I: A woman pointing at herself.
- tú / you (informal): A man pointing at himself.
- él / he: A man holding a coffee cup, a woman pointing at him.
- usted / you (formal): Two men; one sitting pointing, the other standing holding a hat.
- someone you would not call by his or her first name or is not a family member: A man pointing at a woman in a wheelchair.
- ella / she: A man pointing at a woman in a wheelchair.
- nosotros / we (all males or a mixed group): Three people reading a newspaper.
- nosotras / we (all females): Two women, one in a wheelchair.
- ustedes / you (plural): Three people, one pointing.
- ellos / they (all males or a mixed group): A man pointing at a group of boys.
- ellas / they (all females): A man pointing at a group of girls.

Did you notice that tú, usted, and ustedes all mean you?

- Tú is used to mean you when you are speaking to a relative, a friend, or a child. These are people with whom you are familiar and would call by their first names.
- Usted is used when you are speaking to an adult or a stranger. This is someone with whom you may not be familiar or someone you would not call by his or her first name.
- Ustedes is used when you are speaking to two or more people, whether they or you are familiar with each other or not.

Why is Mr. Ramos unhappy with the way Miguel is greeting him?

Miguel should have used the more formal usted form of you to address a teacher.

Práctica (Practice)

Below are subject pronouns. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following subject pronouns in Spanish.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

yo..... I		nosotros we (all males or a mixed group)		nosotras we (all females)
tú you (informal)				ustedes you (plural) usted you (formal)
él he		ellos they (all males or a mixed group)
ella she		ellas they (all females)

Now, listen and repeat the subject pronouns again.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the list below to write the correct subject pronoun you should use when speaking to each of the following people. Terms will be used more than once.

tú usted ustedes

1. la profesora _____
2. mamá _____
3. los estudiantes _____
4. el presidente _____
5. un amigo (friend) _____
6. los maestros _____

Práctica (Practice)

Use the list below of subject pronouns to answer the following on the line provided. Terms will be used more than once.

él	ellos
ella	ellas

- _____ 1. Which pronoun would you use if you were talking about Juan without using his name?

- _____ 2. Which pronoun would replace María's name?

- _____ 3. Which pronoun would replace Carlos and Juan?

- _____ 4. Which pronoun would replace María and Juan?

- _____ 5. Él and ella can also mean it. Remembering gender, which pronoun would replace el libro—él or ella?

- _____ 6. Which pronoun would replace la regla—él, or ella?

- _____ 7. Ellos and ellas mean they. Which pronoun would replace los libros—ellos or ellas?

- _____ 8. Which pronoun would replace las banderas—ellos or ellas?

The Verb estar (To Be)

Use the letters of the word HELP to remember when to use the verb estar. Estar, meaning to be, is used for the following:

H—Health—to tell how you or someone is feeling healthwise at this time

E—Emotions and feelings—to tell about your emotions and feelings at this time

L—Location—to tell where something is at this time

P—Present and temporary conditions—to describe something that can change.

Example: The water is cold.

When you change the spelling to mean is, am, or are, you are conjugating the verb. Conjugating the verb means you are giving it a tense and matching it to the subject. The forms of estar are as follows:

Forms of estar—To Be

yo	estoy	I am
tú	estás	you are (informal)
usted	está	you are (formal)
él	está	he is
ella	está	she is

Unit 3: Expressing Yourself—Numbers, Verbs, Weights, and Measurements

This unit emphasizes the numbers 60-100, the verbs estar and ser, and cultural differences in expressing weights and measurements.

Unit Focus

Communication

- Express likes and dislikes when asked simple questions (e.g., about toys or other objects). (FL.A.1.1.1)
- Greet others and exchange essential personal information (e.g., home address, telephone number, place of origin, and general health). (FL.A.1.1.2)
- Use appropriate gestures and expressions (i.e., body language) to complete or enhance verbal messages. (FL.A.1.1.3)
- Express likes or dislikes regarding various objects, categories, people, and events present in the everyday environment. (FL.A.1.2.1)
- Use repetition, rephrasing, and gestures effectively to assist in communicating spoken messages. (FL.A.1.3.4)
- Follow and give simple instructions (e.g., instructions to participate in games or instructions provided by the teacher for classroom tasks). (FL.A.2.1.1)
- Restate and rephrase simple information from materials presented orally, visually, and graphically in class. (FL.A.2.1.2)

- Understand oral messages that are based on familiar themes and vocabulary (e.g., short conversations between familiar persons on familiar topics such as everyday school and home activities). (FL.A.2.1.3)
- Listen and read in the target language and respond through role playing, drawing, or singing. (FL.A.2.1.4)
- Give and understand written and verbal instructions using known verbal patterns in the target language. (FL.A.2.2.1)
- Organize information in spoken or written form about a variety of topics of academic and cultural interest (e.g., by making lists, categorizing objects, or organizing concepts). (FL.A.2.2.3)
- Comprehend and respond to oral messages (e.g., personal anecdotes or narratives) based on familiar themes and vocabulary. (FL.A.2.2.5)
- Provide simple information in spoken form (e.g., descriptions of family members, friends, objects present in his or her everyday environment, or common school and home activities). (FL.A.3.1.1)

Culture

- Recognize patterns of social behavior or social interaction in various settings (e.g., school, family, or immediate community). (FL.B.1.1.2)
- Recognize various familiar objects and norms of the target culture (e.g., toys, dresses, and typical foods). (FL.B.1.1.3)

Connections

- Use simple vocabulary and phrases to identify familiar objects and concepts from other disciplines. (FL.C.1.1.1)

- Participate in an activity in the target-language class that is based on a concept taught in a content class (e.g., shapes or relationships). (FL.C.1.1.2)
- Participate in activities in the language class designed to integrate content-area concepts (e.g., mathematical calculations or cause-and-effect relationships) into target-language instruction (e.g., about countries or cultures). (FL.C.1.2.1)
- Use target-language vocabulary or concepts to reinforce knowledge of a related topic studied in another class (e.g., geographical place names, parts of the body, or basic mathematical operations). (FL.C.1.2.2)

Comparisons

- Use simple vocabulary and short phrases in the target language. (FL.D.1.1.2)
- Recognize forms of the target language evident in the local culture (e.g., signs, symbols, advertisements, packages, displays, murals, songs, and rhymes). (FL.D.2.2.2)

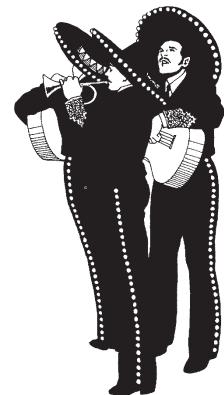

Unit 3: Expressing Yourself—Numbers, Verbs, Weights, and Measurements

Overview

It is important to be able to express yourself. You need to be able to convey information. How would you give someone your telephone number or write a check? How would you ask for directions? How would you tell someone how you feel or tell them you were sick? How would you buy clothes without knowing how to convert your clothing size to the metric system?

In this unit you will learn:

- numbers 60-100 (los números)
- cultural differences in expressing weights and measures
- the verbs estar and ser.

Los números 60-100 (Numbers 60-100)

This section introduces the Spanish numbers 60-100. Spanish numbers can be memorized, but using them can be confusing to people just learning Spanish. Numbers made up of more than one part are often formed differently than they are in English.

Some numbers change according to the gender of the nouns to which they apply.

Note: Uno and numbers ending in uno are shortened to un when they precede a noun that is masculine. See example below.

There are 61 pencils.

Hay sesenta y un lápices.

Los números 60-100 (Numbers 60-100)

Below are the numbers from 60 to 100 written in Spanish.

60	sesenta	80	ochenta
61	sesenta y uno	81	ochenta y uno
62	sesenta y dos	82	ochenta y dos
63	sesenta y tres	83	ochenta y tres
64	sesenta y cuatro	84	ochenta y cuatro
65	sesenta y cinco	85	ochenta y cinco
66	sesenta y seis	86	ochenta y seis
67	sesenta y siete	87	ochenta y siete
68	sesenta y ocho	88	ochenta y ocho
69	sesenta y nueve	89	ochenta y nueve
70	setenta	90	noventa
71	setenta y uno	91	noventa y uno
72	setenta y dos	92	noventa y dos
73	setenta y tres	93	noventa y tres
74	setenta y cuatro	94	noventa y cuatro
75	setenta y cinco	95	noventa y cinco
76	setenta y seis	96	noventa y seis
77	setenta y siete	97	noventa y siete
78	setenta y ocho	98	noventa y ocho
79	setenta y nueve	99	noventa y nueve
100	cien; ciento*

*The number 100, cien, becomes ciento when followed by another number (101-199).

| 96 | noventa y seis |
| 97 | noventa y siete |
| 98 | noventa y ocho |
| 99 | noventa y nueve |
| 100 | cien; ciento |

Now, listen and repeat the numbers again.

The Number 100

The number 100 is cien when it stands alone, but it becomes ciento when it comes before another number.

Example: 100 = cien 120 = ciento veinte

Addresses and Telephone Numbers

In Spanish, when an address (una dirección) is given, the name of the street is usually followed by the number. Also, when the numbers of addresses go over a hundred, they are usually grouped in sets of two. In 3225 Summer Avenue, the number in La Avenida del Verano, número 3225 would be said as treinta y dos, veinticinco or thirty-two, twenty-five.

In Spanish, telephone numbers (los números de teléfono) are also grouped in sets of two. The phone number 555-2464 would be read as cinco, cincuenta y cinco, veinticuatro, sesenta y cuatro or five, fifty-five, twenty-four, sixty-four.

Cultural Differences

Many things are different from one culture to the other. One such difference between the United States and Spanish-speaking cultures are the systems used for weights and measures. The United States uses the U.S. customary system of measurement. The Spanish-speaking world (and most other countries) use the metric system. Unlike the U.S. customary system, the metric system uses units of measure that are all divisible by 10. Therefore, in those countries you may get a surprise when you get on a scale to be weighed, take your temperature, or try on clothing or shoes.

Conversion Table of Weights and Measures
Metric System		U.S. Equivalent
10 grams	= 1 decagram	= 0.353 ounce
250 grams		= 8.825 ounces
28 grams		= 1 ounce
454 grams		= 1 pound
100 grams		= 3 1/₁ₙ ounces
80 milliliters		= 1/₅ cup
240 milliliters		= 1 cup
1 kilo		= 2.21 pounds

Using the U.S. system, imagine that you weigh 150. Using the metric system you would only weigh about 68. That is because you are being weighed in kilograms, not pounds. A kilogram is equal to approximately 2.21 pounds in the U.S. customary system.

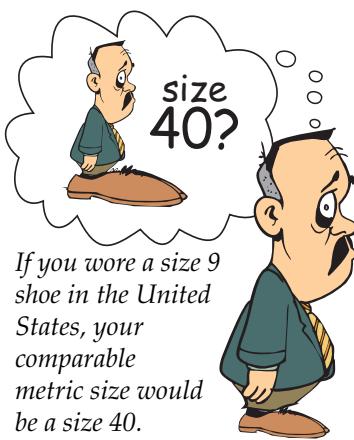

On a scale using the metric system, you would only weigh about 68.

At the doctor's office, the nurse may take your temperature. Since you are not running a fever, your temperature is normal—so the thermometer reads 37 degrees ($^{\circ}$)! Your temperature is being measured in Celsius (C) (centígrado), also known as centigrade. A temperature of 37 Celsius is equal to the normal temperature of 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit (F). Fahrenheit is the scale used in the United States to measure degree of heat.

You may also get a real surprise when you try on clothing or shoes. Your size on the metric scale would be considerably higher than the American sizes.

Let's imagine you wear a size 9 shoe in the United States. Your comparable metric size would be a size 40. A man with a size 39-inch waist would require a size 86 pants in any Spanish-speaking country. That is because your waist is being measured in centimeters (centímetros), not inches. A centimeter is roughly $\frac{4}{9}$ of an inch. One hundred centimeters equals one meter (metro). To get an idea of the approximate length of a meter, remember that it is about the same length as the width of the average kitchen stove (or close to 39 inches).

Práctica (Practice)

Use the recipe below and the Conversion Table of Weights and Measures chart on page 193 to convert the U.S. customary system measurements to metric measurements, the system Spanish-speaking countries use.

The Verb estar (To Be)

The verb estar is one of the ways to say to be. When used this way, it is called an infinitive. An infinitive always means to plus some action, in this case, be. In this section, you will learn how to use this word in the present tense, or, in other words, how to say what is happening now, at the current time.

Use the letters of the word HELP to remember when to use the verb estar. Estar is used to mean is, am, or are when you are talking about the following:

H—Health—to tell how you or someone is feeling healthwise at this time

E—Emotions and feelings—to tell about your emotions and feelings at this time

L—Location—to tell where something is at this time

P—Present and temporary conditions—to describe something that can change.

Example: The water is cold.

Estar—temporary conditions

H—Health

E—Emotions

L—Location

P—Present and temporary conditions

Let's first explore health. We will use estar to describe if we are well or ill. Estar can also be used to state that we are all right or feeling okay. First we must look at the forms of estar:

Forms of estar—To Be

yo	estoy	I am
tú	estás	you are (informal)
usted	está	you are (formal)
él	está	he is
ella	está	she is
nosotros	estamos	we are (all males or a mixed group)
nosotras	estamos	we are (all females)
ustedes	están	you are (plural)
ellos	están	they are (all males or a mixed group)
ellas	están	they are (all females)

Note: Ud. is the abbreviation for usted (you—formal) and Uds. is the abbreviation for ustedes (you—plural).

Práctica (Practice)

The following statements describe feeling well (bien). Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following statements.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

Yo estoy bien.

Ella está bien.

Nosotros estamos bien.

Usted está bien.

Tú estás bien.

Now, listen and repeat the statements again.

The following statements describe not feeling well. They describe feeling bad (mal) or ill. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following statements.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

Ustedes están mal.

Él está mal.

Yo estoy mal.

Ella está mal.

Ellos están mal.

Now, listen and repeat the statements again.

The following statements describe feeling okay. There are two common expressions in Spanish for this: regular or feeling regular or normal, and así, así or feeling so-so or fair. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following statements.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

Yo estoy regular.

Usted está regular.

Ella está regular.

Tú estás regular.

Nosotros estamos así, así.

Ellas están así, así.

Ustedes están así, así.

Now, listen and repeat the statements again.

Práctica (Practice)

Below is a picture of el cuerpo humano (the human body). Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following body parts in Spanish.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

Now, listen and repeat the body parts again.

Práctica (Practice)

¡Ay! ¡Me duele la cabeza! (Oh! My head hurts!)

Below is a dialogue between two friends named Emilia and Luis. They will ask how each other is feeling. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the dialogue in Spanish. Then read the English translation to yourself.

Emilia: ¿Qué pasa? What's the matter?
Luis: Me siento mal. I feel bad.
Emilia: ¿Qué te duele? What hurts?

Luis: ¡Ay! ¡Me duele la cabeza! Oh! My head hurts!
Emilia: ¿Te duele la cabeza? Your head hurts?
Luis: Sí, me siento mal; me duele la cabeza. Yes, I feel bad; my head hurts.

Emilia: ¡Qué lástima! What a shame!
Luis: ¿Cómo te sientes? How do you feel?
Emilia: Me siento bien. I feel well.

Now, listen and repeat the dialogue again.

Práctica (Practice)

Use pages 204-206 and practice a similar dialogue with your partner, changing roles and parts of the body that hurt. Use gestures and expressions to enhance the dialogue.

Location

Now let's explore location. Once again, we will use the verb estar to mean is, am, or are to show location.

Modelos (Models):

Yo estoy en la clase.

I am in the classroom.

Ella está en el restaurante.

She is in the restaurant.

Los libros están en la mochila.

The books are in the book bag.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the following picture clues and the list below to say the location of the person or object in Spanish to your partner. Then write the answers in Spanish.

Modelo (Model): tú

Tú estás en la clase.

1. Yo

2. El profesor

3. El libro

4. La página

5. Los diccionarios

The Verb ser (To Be)

Use the letters of the word DON'T to remember when to use the verb ser. The verb ser also means to be, but it has limited usage. Ser can only be used to tell the following:

D—Description

1. to describe someone's physical traits
2. to describe someone's personality
3. to describe relationships between people

O—Occupation, Origin, and Ownership

4. to describe someone's profession (including being a student)
5. to tell where something or someone is from
6. to tell something belongs to someone

N—Nationality

7. to tell someone's nationality or where he or she is from

T—Time

8. to tell the time

On the following page are examples of how ser can be used based on 1-8 above.

Ser—more permanent, longer-lasting conditions

D—Description

N—Nationality

T—Time

Unit 4: Describing Present Actions

This unit emphasizes the -ar verbs, how to determine the omitted subject of a sentence, and how to tell what you are not doing by making a sentence negative.

Unit Focus

Communication

- Express likes and dislikes when asked simple questions (e.g., about toys or other objects). (FL.A.1.1.1)
- Express likes or dislikes regarding various objects, categories, people, and events present in the everyday environment. (FL.A.1.2.1)
- Restate and rephrase simple information from materials presented orally, visually, and graphically in class. (FL.A.2.1.2)
- Understand oral messages that are based on familiar themes and vocabulary (e.g., short conversations between familiar persons on familiar topics such as everyday school and home activities). (FL.A.2.1.3)
- Give and understand written and verbal instructions using known verbal patterns in the target language. (FL.A.2.2.1)
- Provide simple information in spoken form (e.g., descriptions of family members, friends, objects present in his or her everyday environment, or common school and home activities). (FL.A.3.1.1)

Culture

- Recognize patterns of social behavior or social interaction in various settings (e.g., school, family, or immediate community). (FL.B.1.1.2)

Connections

- Use simple vocabulary and phrases to identify familiar objects and concepts from other disciplines. (FL.C.1.1.1)

Comparisons

- Use simple vocabulary and short phrases in the target language. (FL.D.1.1.2)

Unit 4: Describing Present Actions

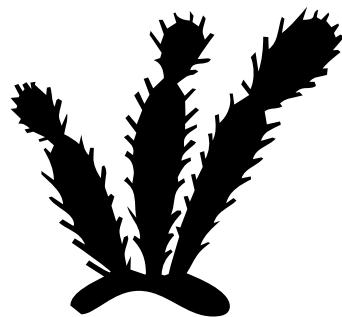

Overview

A sentence is a group of words that expresses a complete thought and contains a subject and a verb. Try to write a sentence to tell what you are doing (or not doing) right now without using a verb. You cannot do it, can you?

A sentence with a subject but without a verb is not a complete sentence. Just like a sentence without a subject, or an understood subject, is not a complete sentence.

In this unit you will learn the following:

- -ar verbs (los verbos)
- omission of the subject
- negative sentences.

Los verbos (Verbs)

In this section, you will learn about verbs in Spanish that end in -ar. You will learn how to tell what is happening now, in present tense.

Verbs are words that express physical action, mental action, or state of being. Verbs tell what the subject of the sentence is, has, does, or feels. This section focuses on action verbs, verbs that show physical or mental action.

In Spanish, all verbs have what is called an infinitive form. An infinitive form of a verb is the same as to + the action in English.

Example: to dance, to walk, or to eat.

In Spanish, infinitive verbs end in one of the three ways—either -ar, -er, or -ir. Each verb is then conjugated based on its infinitive's ending.

Here are the ways you can recognize an infinitive:

- It always ends in the letters -ar, -er, or -ir.
- Its meaning is always to + an action; for example, nadar means to swim.
- It has no tense—it does not tell you if something happened in the past, is happening now, or will happen in the future.

To conjugate a verb means to give the various forms of a verb in their proper order. To conjugate a verb implies showing the action as it is performed by various people or breaking the verb down to show who is doing the action. In Spanish, the verb changes to express the tense (for example—present, past, and future) and the ending of the verb changes to agree with the subject.

There is a pattern for conjugating regular verbs. Spanish also has irregular verbs, just like English. However, right now we will work with regular verbs. All of the verbs on the next page will follow this same pattern. Therefore, once you learn how to write a verb in its present tense form, you can follow the same pattern for all of the verbs with the same infinitive ending.

The -ar Verbs

The -ar ending is what makes these words infinitives. Infinitives have no tense. An infinitive is a verb form that is usually preceded by the word to and is used as a noun, an adjective, or an adverb in English. Below is a list of common -ar verbs and their meanings.

Common -ar Verbs

to dance

cocinar
to cook

buscar to look for comprar to buy caminar to walk

contestar to answer

cantar
to sing

desear to want enseñar to teach ganar

Práctica (Practice)

Below are common -ar verbs that show what is happening now. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following -ar verbs in Spanish.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

bailar to dance

estudiar to study

buscar to look for ganar to win or to earn caminar to walk

hablar to speak or to talk

cantar to sing

mirar to look at or to watch

cocinar to cook

nadar to swim

comprar to buy

desear to want

tomar to take

enseñar to teach

trabajar to work

entrar to enter

viajar to travel

escuchar to listen to

visitar to visit

Now, listen and repeat the verbs again.

Changing an -ar Verb to Present Tense

To change an -ar verb to present tense, remove the part of the word that makes it an infinitive. Let's use nadar (to swim) as our example. Nadar is a regular verb and follows a pattern as it is conjugated. The first thing we must do is remove the letters -ar.

nadar (to swim)

remove the -ar: nad

To the part of the word that remains, add letters depending on who is doing the swimming. Follow the conjugation of nadar on the chart below.

Forms of nadar (To Swim)

With subject prounoun and nadar	you remove the -ar and add	to get	which means yo	o	nado	I swim I am swimming I do swim
tú	as	nadas	you swim you are swimming you do swim (informal)
usted	a	nada	you swim you are swimming you do swim (formal)
él	a	nada	he swims he is swimming he does swim
ella	a	nada	she swims she is swimming she does swim
nosotros	amos	nadamos	we swim we are swimming we do swim (all males or a mixed group)
nosotras	amos	nadamos	we swim we are swimming we do swim (all females)
ustedes	an	nadan	you swim you are swimming you do swim (plural)
ellos	an	nadan	they swim they are swimming they do swim (all males or a mixed group)
ellas	an	nadan	they swim they are swimming they do swim (all females)

In English, we have three different ways to express present tense. In Spanish, there is one. So, the word nado can be the equivalent in English of I swim, I am swimming, or I do swim. Notice that you use more words in English than you do in Spanish.

Subject Pronouns and Present Tense of Regular -ar Verbs

Singular	Plural
yo /	nosotros we (masculine)
tú you (informal)	nosotras we (feminine)
usted you (formal)	ustedes you

Tú is informal and is used to address a person such as a friend, member of your family, a child, or anyone with whom you are on a first-name basis.

Usted is formal and is used to address people whom you do not know very well, or older people, teachers, or anyone with whom you have a respectful or formal relationship. Ud. is an abbreviation of the word usted.

Uds. is an abbreviation of the word ustedes. Ustedes is used to address a group of people. Ustedes is used as the plural of usted and tú.

Nosotros refers to a group of males and females, or to a group of all males.

Nosotras refers to a group of all females.

Omission of the Subject

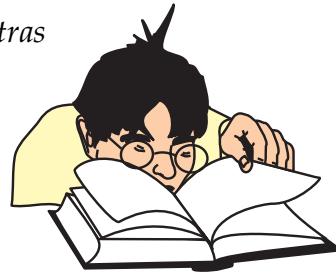

As you have learned, verbs have specific endings, depending on who is doing the action. For instance, note the following:

- all the previous verbs used with yo (I) end in -o
- all the previous verbs used with nosotros or nosotras (we) end in -amos
- all the previous verbs used with tú (you) end in -as.

Because of this, the words yo, tú, nosotros, and nosotras are often left out of the sentence. However, notice that you can still tell who is doing the action by the ending of the verb.

Here is an example.

Estudio mucho.

Estudio mucho.

You know the person speaking means that “I study a lot” because the verb for study—estudio—ends in the letter -o. Only verbs that are used with yo end in that letter. It is very common that these words are left out of the sentence. The more you practice your verbs, the easier it will become.

This is not true as often with él, ella, usted, ellos, ellas, or ustedes. They share the same verb endings with other subjects, so sometimes it may not be clear who the subject of the sentence is if you omit these words.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the list below to choose the correct verb in Spanish for the following sentences. Then rewrite the sentences in Spanish, using the correct form of the verb and omitting the subject from the sentence.

Making Sentences Negative

You have learned how to tell what people do. What if you need to tell what people are not doing? To tell what people are not doing, you need to make the sentence negative. This is very simple to do in Spanish.

You make a sentence negative in Spanish by using the word “no” in front of the verb.

Compro el libro.
I buy the book.

No compro el libro.
I don't buy the book.

Estudiamos.
We study.

No estudiamos.
We don't study.

Ellos entran en la clase.
They enter the class.

Ellos no entran en la clase.
They don't enter the class.

Usted saca fotos.
You take photos.

Usted no saca fotos.
You don't take photos.

Práctica (Practice)

Write in Spanish that the following people do not do the things mentioned. Then read the sentences to your partner.

1. Pablo visita con María. _____

- Recognize forms of the target language evident in the local culture (e.g., signs, symbols, advertisements, packages, displays, murals, songs, and rhymes). (FL.D.2.2.2)

Unit 5: Where to Go and What to Do

Overview

Where are some places you go? Do you ever go to the movies, to the beach, or to a concert? You will be looking at pictures of different places, similar to the ones below, and learning how to say in Spanish where the people are and what they are doing.

la piscina

el museo

el parque de atracciones

la playa

In this lesson you will learn the following:

- names of places
- how to say someone is going somewhere
- how to say what someone is going to do.

Cognates—Spanish Words Similar to English Words

In Unit 2 we discussed cognates and false cognates. Many of the words on the following pages are cognates—words that look and sound alike in more than one language. You can understand the meaning of these words because they are similar to English. In fact, we get our English words from the same origin as Spanish—Latin.

Learning the names for places that are cognates should be very easy. Remember to also learn their gender—whether they use el or un, la or una. The gender will be very important later on when we study adjectives.

What Are Cognates?

There are many Spanish words that are recognizable to an English reader. These words are called cognates. They look the same and often sound the same.

Do keep in mind that some cognates do not always translate from one language to another precisely. Such cognates are called false cognates. False cognates are words that look the same or almost the same but have different meanings. For example, pan in English refers to a metal dish for cooking and pan in Spanish means bread. (See Unit 2.)

However, there are thousands of English words which can be converted into Spanish along with much of their English meaning. Listed below are a few.

English	Spanish
color	color
animal	animal
metal	metal
idealism	idealismo
distance	distancia
negative	negativo
famous	famoso

Where to Go and What to Do

People living in cold winter climates are attracted to the many beautiful beaches in Spain and Latin American countries. Many of the Spanish-speaking countries, such as Mexico, also attract tourists to their ancient ruins. However, in a typical weekend, Spanish-speaking teens spend time with friends and family. These teens are probably similar to you. They worry about the weather affecting weekend or vacation plans.

Places

What types of places do you visit on the weekend or on vacations? What types of places would like to visit? For example, this weekend do you plan to go to a

Celebrations

New Year's Eve

Different cultures may celebrate the same holidays differently. Think about how New Year's Eve is celebrated in the United States on December 31st at midnight. Spanish-speaking countries have a special tradition in which they eat 12 grapes at midnight to bring good luck for each month in the new year.

At midnight, with each chime of the clock, people put a grape in their mouth. Of course it is almost impossible to finish eating all 12 grapes by the 12th chime of the clock. There is much laughter as people look at each other.

This tradition began long ago in Spain. One year there was a large grape harvest, and the king of Spain gave grapes to everyone to eat on New Year's Eve.

Piñatas

The piñata can be found in all shapes and sizes. Mexican piñatas are usually made of papier-maché covering a balloon filled with candies. The piñata is hung by a rope overhead. A blindfolded person is spun around in circles to confuse his or her sense of space. He or she is given a stick to swing at the piñata and break it open. For older children, the rope to suspend the piñata is used to bob it up and down. Once the piñata is open, the guests rush in to collect the goodies that have fallen from it.

A blindfolded person is spun around in circles to confuse his or her sense of space.

Today, piñatas are part of fun activities at fiestas (parties or celebrations). The history of the cultures using the piñata is interesting. Originating in Africa, the piñata and its related ceremonies have been passed from country to country. The Aztecs and the Chinese also had a ritual that included a piñata.

The Spanish piñata came from Italy. The explorer Marco Polo is said to have been the first to have brought the piñata to Italy from China, in the 14th century. Then Spanish explorers brought the piñata to Mexico at the beginning of the 16th century.

El cumpleaños (Birthday)

Everyone has a birth date. In the United States, some families have big birthday celebrations, some have small celebrations, and some have none at all. How does your family celebrate birthdays?

In Argentina, one of the traditional ways to celebrate a child's birthday is to gently pull on his or her earlobe for each year he or she has been alive. In Mexico and in Panama, a piñata is usually part of the fiesta.

Many families in Spanish-speaking cultures have large birthday parties. The extended family and many children are invited. When the cake is served the song "Feliz cumpleaños" ("Happy Birthday") is sung. Below are the words to one version of "Feliz cumpleaños."

The Verb ir (To Go)

The verb ir means to go. Ir is the infinitive form of the verb. Remember, the infinitive form of a verb does not show when the action takes place. You will now learn how to say that someone is going somewhere now (present tense). Below are the forms of ir:

Forms of ir—To Go

yo	voy	I go, I am going, I do go
tú	vas	you go, you are going, you do go (informal)
usted	va	you go, you are going, you do go (formal)
él	va	he goes, he is going, he does go

ellos	van	they go, they are going, they do go (all males or a mixed group)
ellas	van	they go, they are going, they do go (all females)

*Él va a nadar.
He is going to swim.*

Remember: When speaking or writing in Spanish, the words yo, tú, and nosotros are often left out. If it is clear who the sentence is talking about, you may also leave out the words él, ella, usted, ellos, ellas, and ustedes.

Práctica (Practice)

Below are the conjugated forms of the verb—ir—to go. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following verb forms in Spanish.

Ir a + Infinitive

What People Are Going to Do

You have just learned how to use the verb ir, meaning to go. You can now also use this verb to tell what people are going to do. To do this, you put ir in present tense along with a, and follow it with an infinitive. An infinitive is the form of the verb that ends in -ar, -er, or -ir. You learned quite a few verbs already that end in -ar. If necessary, go back and review the previous unit.

To tell what someone is going to do, use the following formula:

ir a + infinitive = to be going to do something

Yo voy a + infinitive

Tú vas a + infinitive

Él va a + infinitive

Ella va a + infinitive

Usted va a + infinitive

Nosotros vamos a + infinitive

Nosotras vamos a + infinitive

Ustedes van a + infinitive

Ellos van a + infinitive

Ellas van a + infinitive

*Él va a practicar.
He is going to practice.*

*Ellos van a bailar.
They are going to dance.*

Here are some more examples:

Yo voy a estudiar.

I am going to study.

Ella va a nadar.

She is going to swim.

Ellos van a escuchar música. They are going to listen to music.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the lists below of the forms of the verb ir—to go and the infinitives to write what each person is going to do in Spanish. Then read each sentence to your partner. Some forms of ir—to go—will be used more than once.

Remember: Use a form of ir then a + the infinitive to form the sentence.

- Know the similarities and differences between the patterns of behavior of the target culture related to recreation, celebration, holidays, customs, and the patterns of behavior of the local culture. (FL.D.2.1.1)

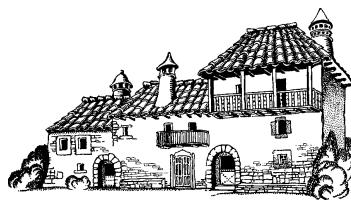

Unit 6: Family, Adjectives, Likes, and Dislikes

Overview

Spanish-speaking people love to socialize with family and friends. During a social event, when they see a group of friends or family members, the Spanish speakers will greet each person individually and do the same when they leave. Men usually shake hands and women are kissed on the cheek. Spanish-speaking people usually tend to stand closer together than Americans when socializing and many times make body contact. When there is a social event or family gathering, the children are also invited. Most family units are large and often include grandparents, in-laws, aunts, and uncles. It is not unusual for many family members to live together because family is very important to them.

In this unit you will learn the following:

- family members
- adjectives (los adjetivos)
- how to describe people
- clothes
- colors
- how to tell what you like and do not like
- how to tell what you like to do and do not like to do.

La familia (Family)

Great respect is given to grandparents.

The family unit is very important in Spanish culture. Families are close-knit and usually live close to each other. It is not unusual for the grandparents to live with one of their married children and their grandchildren. This is called an extended family. Great respect is given to grandparents. The children of the family are often very close to their grandparents. The grandparents offer advice and are thought of as wise.

When a woman marries, most Spanish-speaking countries handle the issue of last names differently than in the United States. The woman will take her husband's last name, but then follow it with her maiden name.

Example:

Maria Sanchez marries Juan Gonzalez. Her official name then becomes Maria Sanchez de Gonzalez. De means belonging to. Her children will all have the last name of Gonzalez Sanchez.

Families are close-knit and usually live close to each other.

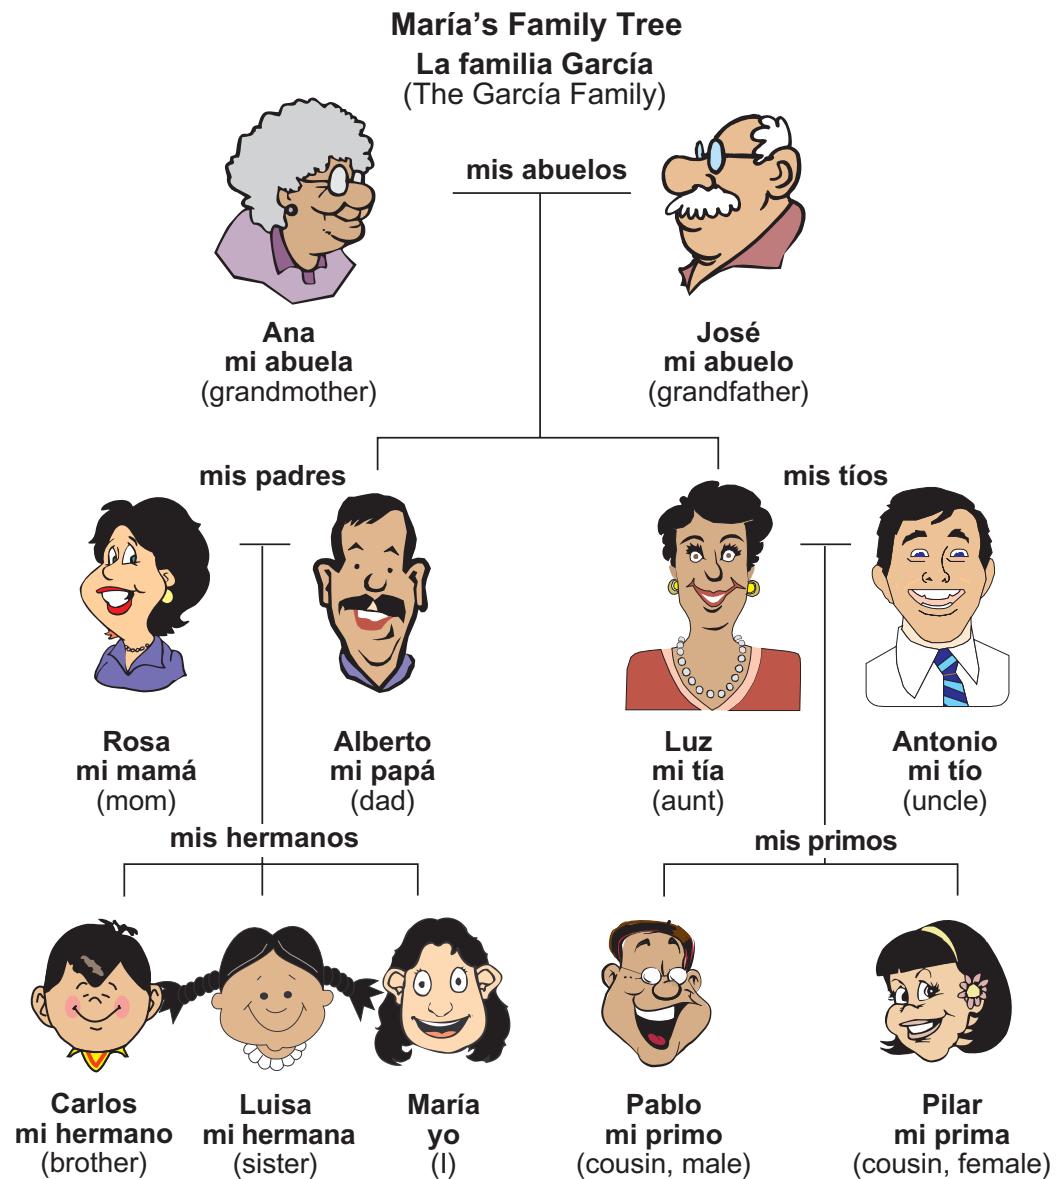

The family unit is very important in Spanish culture.

In the United States, it is usually the name of the father that is carried through the generations. In most Spanish-speaking families, it is the name of the mother that is carried down. The idea is the same in both cases—it helps record your roots.

Below is the family tree of María's immediate family. (See María at the bottom of the family tree.) On the following page, there are other important relationships in a family that you should also know.

Who Could Be in a Family?

How large is your family? Many teenagers in Spanish-speaking countries live in large, close knit families. Below are some immediate and extended family relationships.

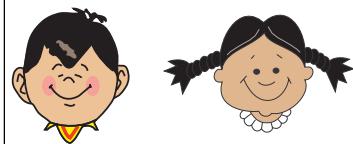

los padres (parents)

Los adjetivos (Adjectives)

Adjectives are words that tell something about a noun or a pronoun. Adjectives are used to describe people or things. Adjectives are the words that help pick people out of a crowd or things out of a group of many things. They will tell you what people look like or what their personality is like. They can describe height, length, and width.

Adjectives are a little different in Spanish than in English. They may change spelling, depending on whom or what they are describing. They may also come in a different place in the sentence than they do in English.

Note the words that are italicized are adjectives.

The young girl with long, brown hair is a great skater.

First, let's explore their spelling. You learned that all nouns have gender in Spanish. Every person, place, or thing is referred to as being masculine or feminine. It is important to consider the gender of things when you describe them in Spanish. The spelling of the word may change depending on the gender of the noun it describes. Look at the adjectives on the following page and their meanings. Notice the spelling changes for masculine and feminine. People have gender and objects do too. You must follow the spelling rule regardless if you are describing people or things.

feminine

Masculine and Feminine Forms of Adjectives

Carefully look at these examples:

Julio es alto y simpático.
Julio is tall and nice.

Because Julio is a boy, the words used to describe him must be masculine also.

Ana es alta y simpática.
Ana is tall and nice.

Those same adjectives have changed spelling to end in an -a. That is because they are describing a girl, Ana. To describe something feminine, the describing words must also be feminine.

Juan es rubio.
Juan is blond.

El profesor es aburrido.
The teacher (male) is boring.

Alberto es ambicioso.
Alberto is ambitious.

Elena es rubia.
Elena is blonde.

La clase es aburrida.
The class is boring.

Julia es ambiciosa.
Julia is ambitious.

Below is a list of masculine and feminine forms of adjectives in Spanish and their meanings. Notice that if the adjective ends in an -o to describe something or someone masculine, the -o changes to an -a to describe something feminine.

Masculine and Feminine Adjectives

Masculine	Feminine	Meaning
alto	alta	tall
bajo	baja	short
antipático	antipática	unpleasant
simpático	simpática	nice
calvo	calva	bald
moreno	morena	dark-haired
pelirrojo	pelirroja	redheaded
rubio	rubia	blond(e)
delgado	delgada	thin
gordo	gorda	fat
bonito	bonita	pretty
feo	fea	ugly
guapo	guapa	good-looking
hermoso	hermosa	beautiful
bueno	buena	good
malo	mala	bad
cómico	cómica	comical

aburrido	aburrida	boring
divertido	divertida	fun
listo	lista	clever
romántico	romántica	romantic
viejo	vieja	old
ambicioso	ambiciosa	ambitious
perezoso	perezosa	lazy

Práctica (Practice)

Listen and repeat as the teacher models each adjective in its masculine and then its feminine form.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

Masculine	Feminine	Meaning
alto	alta	tall
bajo	baja	short
antipático	antipática	unpleasant
simpático	simpática	nice
calvo	calva	bald
moreno	morena	dark-haired
pelirrojo	pelirroja	redheaded
rubio	rubia	blond(e)
delgado	delgada	thin

cómico cómica comical

serio seria serious

aburrido aburrida boring

divertido divertida fun

listo lista clever romántico romántica romantic

viejo vieja old ambicioso ambiciosa ambitious

perezoso perezosa lazy

Now, listen and repeat the adjectives again.

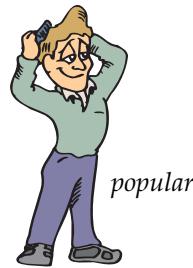

Adjectives That Stay the Same

Look at the following adjectives. Each one stays the same whether it is describing a male or a female.

Fernando es inteligente.

Carmen es inteligente.

Fernando es popular.

Carmen es popular.

Here is a list of other adjectives that do not change their spelling from masculine to feminine. They stay the same when describing a male or a female.

Adjectives That Stay the Same

grande	great, big
impaciente	impatient
inteligente	intelligent, smart
interesante	interesting
joven	young
paciente	patient
popular	popular
responsable	responsible

I want it NOW!

Of the adjectives above and the ones on page 350, which ones would you consider to be cognates? For example, the following adjectives are cognates.

inteligente intelligent romántico(a) romantic

 Remember: Cognates are words that look and sound alike in more than one language. (Some cognates are false cognates because they have different meanings.)

Práctica (Practice)

Listen and repeat as the teacher models each adjective that stays the same whether describing a male or a female in Spanish.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

grande great, big

impaciente impatient

inteligente intelligent, smart

interesante interesting

joven young

paciente patient

popular popular

responsable responsible

Now, listen and repeat the adjectives again.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the list of adjectives below and work with a partner to describe each other in Spanish. Write two sentences using adjectives that match the gender of your partner.

alto(a)	tall	hermoso(a)	beautiful ambicioso(a)	ambitious	listo(a)	clever
bajo(a)	short	moreno(a)	dark-haired
bonito(a)	pretty	pelirrojo(a)	redheaded
bueno(a)	good	rubio(a)	blond(e)
cómico(a)	comical	simpático(a)	nice
divertido(a)	funny	serio(a)	serious
guapo(a)	good-looking

*Modelo (Model): Juan es guapo y listo.
Juan is good-looking and clever.*

*María es guapa y divertida.
María is good-looking and funny.*

1. _____

2. _____

Now use the same group of adjectives above to write one sentence describing your teacher.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the list of adjectives in Spanish on page 350, or pages 351-352, to find the proper form of the adjective in the parentheses. Then read the sentences to your partner.

(good-looking) 1. Juan es _____.

(blonde) 2. Juanita es _____.

(serious) 3. Tomás no es _____.

(popular) 4. Susana es _____.

(nice) 5. El Sr. Jiménez es _____.

(boring) 6. La musica es muy _____.

(unpleasant) 7. La chica es _____.

(redheaded) 8. Mi tía es _____.

(ugly) 9. El hombre es muy _____.

(smart) 10. El profesor de matemáticas es _____.

(fat) 11. Mi abuelo es _____.

(romantic) 12. La música es _____.

Plural Adjectives

Now let's look at what happens when you describe more than one thing or person, something plural. The two things you must think about are gender and plural. Yes, the words that describe must also become plural. Look carefully at these comparisons:

Juan es guapo.
Juan is good-looking.

Ana es guapa.
Ana is good-looking.

Juan y Miguel son guapos.
Juan and Miguel are good-looking.

Ana y Susana son guapas.
Ana and Susana are pretty.

Marco es inteligente.
Marco is intelligent.

Paula es inteligente.
Paula is intelligent.

Marco y Julio son inteligentes.
Marco and Julio are intelligent.

Paula y Elena son inteligentes.
Paula and Elena are intelligent.

Paula y Elena son inteligentes.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the underlined adjective from the first sentence to describe the people in the second sentence. The adjective must agree in gender and in number (singular or plural) with the noun(s) it is describing.

1. Mónica es baja.

Mónica y Luisa son _____ .

Me gusta, no me gusta (I Like, I Don't Like)

How to say in Spanish what you like and what you don't like.

Look at the following sentences:

Me gusta el libro.
I like the book.

Me gustan los libros.
I like books.

Me gusta el chocolate.
I like chocolate.

Me gustan los chocolates.
I like chocolates.

Me gusta and me gustan both mean “I like” in Spanish. What is the difference? You use me gusta if what you like is singular. You use me gustan if what you like is plural. Look at the above examples again and be sure you can spot the difference.

What if you like an activity? For example, what if you want to say “I like to play soccer”? You always use me gusta with an activity.

Me gusta leer.
I like to read.

Me gusta jugar al fútbol.
I like to play soccer.

Me gusta comer.
I like to eat.

Me gusta nadar.
I like to swim.

What if you don't like something? Then you use the phrase no me gusta or no me gustan. Once again, you use no me gusta if what you don't like is singular or an activity. Use no me gustan if what you don't like is plural.

Práctica (Practice)

Match each Spanish sentence with its correct English translation. Write the letter on the line provided.

- Use repetition, rephrasing, and gestures effectively to assist in communicating spoken messages. (FL.A.1.3.4)
- Restate and rephrase simple information from materials presented orally, visually, and graphically in class. (FL.A.2.1.2)
- Understand oral messages that are based on familiar themes and vocabulary (e.g., short conversations between familiar persons on familiar topics such as everyday school and home activities). (FL.A.2.1.3)
- Provide simple information in spoken form (e.g., descriptions of family members, friends, objects present in his or her everyday environment, or common school and home activities). (FL.A.3.1.1)

Culture

- Recognize various familiar objects and norms of the target culture (e.g., toys, dresses, and typical foods). (FL.B.1.1.3)

Connections

- Use simple vocabulary and phrases to identify familiar objects and concepts from other disciplines. (FL.C.1.1.1)

Comparisons

- Know examples of word borrowing from one language to another. (FL.D.1.1.1)
- Use simple vocabulary and short phrases in the target language. (FL.D.1.1.2)
- Know the similarities and differences between the patterns of behavior of the target culture related to recreation, celebration, holidays, customs, and the patterns of behavior of the local culture. (FL.D.2.1.1)
- Distinguish the similarities and differences between the patterns of behavior of the target culture related to recreations, holidays, celebrations and the patterns of behavior of the local culture. (FL.D.2.2.1)

Unit 7: Asking Questions and Getting Information

Overview

In most Spanish-speaking countries, mealtimes and meals differ from those in the United States. The main meal is in the middle of the day and is a full meal, somewhat like our dinner. The meal usually consists of soup, rice, beans, vegetables, meat, salad, dessert, and coffee. After the main meal of the day, a siesta or nap is sometimes taken. Most restaurants remain open for people who prefer to eat out. A light supper is usually eaten in the evening and is more like our lunch. Imagine you are in a Spanish-speaking country. Would you be able to ask for the food you want from a market or find out what restaurants were open?

In this unit you will learn the following:

- -er verbs
- -ir verbs
- the expression the verb tener
- tener que
- how to ask questions
- how to find out information.

The -er Verbs

In Unit 4, you learned that one type of verb is the verb called an -ar verb. You also learned that it is called this because it ends in the letters -ar when it is in its basic form, an infinitive. An infinitive form of a verb is the same as to + the action in English. An infinitive does not have a tense. It always means to + some action. An example would be as follows:

estudiar means to study.

We will now study another class of verbs. These are called -er verbs. Once again, they are called this because they end in the letters -er when they are infinitives. Below is a list of common -er verbs and their meanings.

Common -er Verbs

aprender to learn		comprender to understand
beber to drink		correr to run
comer to eat		creer to believe or to think

leer
to read saber to know (knowledge)

querer
to want

vender to sell responder to answer or to reply

ver
to see

As you learned before, these verbs have special endings to tell what is happening now, in present tense. They are similar to -ar verbs, but do have their own special endings.

Once again, we begin by removing the -er ending. Follow the conjugation of comer on the chart below.

Forms of comer —To Eat
comer	remove the -er	stem: com- yo	como	I eat, I am eating, I do eat
tú	comes	you eat, you are eating, you do eat (informal)
usted	come	you eat, you are eating, you do eat (formal)
él	come	he eats, he is eating, he does eat
ella	come	she eats, she is eating, she does eat
nosotros	comemos	we eat, we are eating, we do eat (all males or a mixed group)
nosotras	comemos	we eat, we are eating, we do eat (all females)
ustedes	comen	you eat, you are eating, you do eat (plural)
ellos	comen	they eat, they are eating, they do eat (all males or a mixed group)
ellas	comen	they eat, they are eating, they do eat (all females)

Present Tense of Regular Verbs Ending in -er

Subject Pronoun	-er Verbs yo	o
tú	es
usted él ella	e e e
nosotros	emos
nosotras	emos
ustedes ellos ellas	en en en

Remember:

tú	you (informal)
usted	you (formal)
ustedes	you (plural)
ellos	they (all males or a mixed group)
ellas	they (all females)

When Leaving Out the Subject Is Okay

Remember that in Spanish the subject is often left out if it is clear about whom they are speaking.

Example: Como mucho. I eat a lot.

The -o at the end of the verb can only match yo, so you can only be talking about I.

This is especially true when the subjects are yo, tú, and nosotros, since they do not share an ending with any other subject.

Let's practice saying the verb comer and then writing some of the other -er verbs.

Práctica (Practice)

Below are the conjugated forms of the verb—comer—to eat. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following verb forms in Spanish.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

yo como I eat

tú comes you eat (informal)

usted come you eat (formal)

él come he eats

ella come she eats

nosotros comemos we eat (all males or a mixed group)

nosotras comemos we eat (all females)

ustedes comen you eat (plural)

ellos comen they eat (all males or a mixed group)

ellas comen they eat (all females)

Now, listen and repeat the verb forms again.

Práctica (Practice)

Below are common -er verbs. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following verbs in Spanish.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

comer to eat

leer to read

vender to sell

comprender to understand

correr to run

beber to drink

creer to believe or to think responder to answer or to reply

ver to see

querer to want

saber to know (knowledge)

Now, listen and repeat the verbs again.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the verb in the parentheses and pages 399-400 to write the correct form of the verb that is used with the following subjects. Then read the sentences to your partner.

Ver, querer, and saber—Irregular Verbs

The verbs ver (to see), querer (to want), and saber (to know) are somewhat unusual. They do not follow the rules you have just learned. They are called irregular verbs. Irregular verbs must be learned separately. Each one follows a different pattern. You will need to learn the following conjugation of each verb. See the following charts.

Forms of ver—To See

yo	veo	I see, I am seeing
tú	ves	you see, you are seeing (informal)
usted	ve	you see, you are seeing (formal)
él	ve	he sees, he is seeing
ella	ve	she sees, she is seeing
nosotros	vemos	we see, we are seeing (all males or a mixed group)
nosotras	vemos	we see, we are seeing (all females)
ustedes	ven	you see, you are seeing (plural)
ellos	ven	they see, they are seeing (all males or a mixed group)
ellas	ven	they see, they are seeing (all females)

Note: Only the yo form is irregular.

Forms of querer—To Want

yo	quiero	I want, I do want tú	quieres	you want, you do want (informal)
usted	quiere	you want, you do want (formal)
él	quiere	he wants, he does want
ella	quiere	she wants, she does want
nosotros	queremos	we want, we do want (all males or a mixed group)
nosotras	queremos	we want, we do want (all females)
ustedes	quieren	you want, you do want (plural)
ellos	quieren	they want, they do want (all males or a mixed group)
ellas	quieren	they want, they do want (all females)

Note: All forms except nosotros and nosotras are irregular.

Forms of saber—To Know

(facts, information, or how to do something) yo	sé	I know, I do know

tú	sabes	you know, you do know (informal)
usted	sabe	you know, you do know (formal)
él	sabe	he knows, he does know
ella	sabe	she knows, she does know
nosotros	sabemos	we know, we do know (all males or a mixed group)
nosotras	sabemos	we know, we do know (all females)
ustedes	saben	you know, you do know (plural)
ellos	saben	they know, they do know (all males or a mixed group)
ellas	saben	they know, they do know (all females)

Note: Only the yo form is irregular.

Please notice that the verb saber refers to knowing information or how to do something. This is not the word you use when you talk about knowing people and who they are.

Let's practice saying and using these verbs.

Práctica (Practice)

Below are the conjugated forms of the verb ver—to see. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following verb forms in Spanish.

The -ir Verbs

The last group of verbs are called -ir verbs because their infinitive ends in -ir. Below is a list of common -ir verbs and their meanings.

Common -ir Verbs

abrir to open		escribir to write
cubrir to cover		recibir to receive describir to describe	 Let's see... She has on a red and white polka-dot skirt...blonde hair...red shoes flying off...	subir to go up or get on (a bus, etc.)
dividir to divide		vivir to live

Once again, in order to use these words in present tense, we begin by dropping the -ir from the infinitive. You then add the following endings for each subject. Follow the conjugation of the verb abrir—to open—on the chart below.

Forms of abrir—To Open

yo	abro	I open, I am opening, I do open
tú	abres	you open, you are opening, you do open (informal)

The Expression “tener que”— To Tell What People “Have to Do”

Every language has its special expressions. This is true of Spanish as well. You have just learned the verb tener to tell what people have. This verb is also used in an expression called tener que. Tener que is always followed by another verb. The expression then tells what people have to do. You will conjugate tener just like you have already learned. Then you follow it with the word que and another verb. Here are some examples:

Tengo que estudiar.

I have to study.

Tenemos que ir al colegio.

We have to go to school.

Ella no tiene que cocinar.

She does not have to cook.

Compare the following sentences:

Tengo un libro.

I have a book.

Tengo que leer un libro.

I have to read a book.

Tenemos una clase a la una.

We have class at one o'clock.

Tenemos que ir a clase a la una.

We have to go to class at one o'clock.

Tienes una mochila.

You have a bookbag.

Tienes que comprar una mochila.

You have to buy a bookbag.

Please notice that the verb that tells what you have to do will always end in -ar, -er, or -ir.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the lists below to correctly write the following sentences in Spanish. Then read the sentences to your partner.

forms of tener

tenemos que
tengo que tiene que tienen que
tienes que

-ar verbs

el sábado

Modelo (Model): You have to buy a sandwich.

Tienes que comprar un sandwich.

1. Paco has to look for a book.

2. We have to practice.

3. They have to visit Grandmother.

4. I have to speak Spanish.

5. Ana and Pilar have to work on Saturday.

Las preguntas (Questions)

Asking questions is very easy in Spanish. Usually you can just lift your voice at the end of the sentence and it becomes a question if you just want a yes or no answer. When you use a subject or a subject pronoun in a sentence

- put the verb first
- then put the subject and
- lift your voice at the end.

Remember to also use an upside-down question (¿) mark in front of the sentence and a regular question mark at the end (?).

¿Tienes un libro?

The purpose of the upside-down question mark in reading is to let you know that the sentence coming up is going to be a question so you know to lift your voice at the end.

Listen as your teacher reads the following sentences:

Statement

Tienes un libro.
You have a book.

Question

¿Tienes un libro?
Do you have a book?

Buscas tu cuaderno.
You are looking for your notebook.

¿Buscas tu cuaderno?
Are you looking for your notebook?

Él estudia mucho.
He studies a lot.

¿Estudia él mucho?
Does he study a lot?

María camina por el parque.
María walks through the park.

¿Camina María por el parque?
Does María walk through the park?

Práctica (Practice)

Write the following statements as questions.

Remember: Do the following to each question you write.

- Use an upside-down question mark (¿) at the beginning.
- Use a regular question mark (?) at the end.
- Put the verb first.
- Place the subject after the verb.

1. Tienes una computadora.

2. Ellos tienen unos bolígrafos.

3. Ustedes viajan por México.

4. Ella trabaja mucho.

5. Tengo que estudiar.

6. Papá saca fotos.

7. Él gana mucho dinero.

8. Practicamos la guitarra.

9. Sabes jugar al fútbol.

10. Quieres mirar la televisión.

Asking Questions for Information

If you want to ask a question for which you want information as an answer instead of a yes or no, you will have to learn some new words. These are words that ask for direct information. They are often called interrogative words. You will need to learn the following words:

¿cuándo?	when?
¿dónde?	where?
¿adónde?	(to) where?
¿cómo?	how? or what?
¿por qué?	why?
¿qué?	what?
¿a qué hora?	at what time?

¿cuándo?
¿por qué?
¿qué?
¿dónde?
¿a qué hora?
¿adónde?
¿cómo?

Look at the position of these words in the sentence. Remember, if you use a subject pronoun in the sentence, you put it after the verb.

- | | |
|--------------------------------|--|
| ¿Cuándo estudias? | When do you study? |
| ¿Dónde está Miguel? | Where is Miguel? |
| ¿Adónde vas? | Where are you going? (to where) |
| ¿Cómo vas al colegio? | How are you going to school? |
| ¿Por qué vas? | Why are you going? |
| ¿Qué estudian ellos? | What are they studying? |
| ¿A qué hora come usted? | At what time do you eat? |

You are now going to practice asking and answering questions.

Remember: When someone asks a question using you, answer with either I or with we.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the list below to complete the following questions with the correct interrogative word.

adónde	por qué
cómo	qué
cuando	a qué hora

Modelo (Model): Question—¿ _____ A qué hora estudias?

Answer—Estudio a las siete.

1. ¿ _____ busca ella?

Ella busca su cuaderno.

2. ¿ _____ van ellos?

Ellos van a la biblioteca.

3. ¿ _____ comen ustedes?

Nosotros comemos a las siete y media.

4. ¿ _____ estás?

Estoy bien, gracias.

5. ¿ _____ tienes el libro de español?

Porque tengo que estudiar.

Práctica (Practice)

Use the list below to complete the following statements with the correct form of the verb comer—to eat or querer—to want.

come	como	quieres
comemos	quieren

1. César _____ la manzana.
2. Nosotros _____ los postres.
3. Tú _____ unas vacaciones.
4. Yo _____ la fruta.
5. Diego y Santos _____ practicar la guitarra.

Match each Spanish -ir verb with the correct English word. Write the letter on the line provided.

- | | | |
|--------------------|-----------------------|---|
| _____ 6. abrir | A. to cover |  |
| _____ 7. cubrir | B. to describe | |

Unit 8: The House, Food, and Place Settings

Overview

In Spanish cities, many houses are built so close together that there is no space between each house, kind of like townhouses. Most are built in a row with no front yard. The houses usually have a patio or un patio. This is an open, uncovered area which is usually paved with tile. The patio can be viewed from almost any room in the house, so it is decorated for such viewing with a variety of colorful flowers, plants, and sometimes birds. When visiting the home of a Spanish-speaking family, take the time to compliment their house and patio. Would you be able to name the rooms in the house in Spanish?

In this unit you will learn the following:

- names of the rooms of the house
- names of furnishings
- names of foods
- how to set the table
- how to use the words this, that, these, and those.

La casa (The House)

In large Spanish cities and towns, most people live in apartments (apartamentos). People who live outside the downtown area often build houses in which to live. However, they are not like the houses we have in the United States. There is no large front or back yard. Instead, the house is built around an open area called el patio (the patio), where there are usually flowers and a fountain. This way, the family can enjoy the view from any room in the house and still have privacy.

The tiles used on Spanish houses are usually red. There is also a wrought-iron balcony and grids on the windows. These wrought-iron grids are generally placed only on the outside windows of the bottom floor of the house for protection while allowing the homeowners to enjoy the fresh air. In "olden" days, before a boy was able to date, he courted the girl by talking with her through the grids on the windows. This custom was called comer hierro (eating iron). After a while, he could then be introduced to the girl's parents.

La comida (Food)

Tasting food from other countries can be an adventure. If you get to visit a Spanish-speaking country, there are foods you might need to know. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA's) Food Pyramid below can be used as a guide in choosing foods.

The USDA's Food Pyramid is a personalized approach to making healthy food choices. The Food Pyramid is composed of six bands representing five food groups and oils. Foods from all groups are needed each day. The kinds and amounts of food to eat may vary for each person.

Eating Utensils

Setting the table in Europe is different than in the United States. The spoon is usually placed above the plate and face down. Also, people generally eat with their left hand, or whichever hand is their non-dominant hand. This is so that they can cut one piece of food at a time and not have to switch hands with their forks.

Below is a list of eating utensils.

This, That, These, and Those

Spanish adds another dimension to the words this, that, these and those. The correct use of these words depends on how far away you are from the objects. You must remember the gender of the object or objects to which you are referring. You must also remember the number of articles about which you are speaking.

Let's imagine that you are in a room in which there is a book on a desk near you, one book on a desk a few rows away, and another on a desk on the other side of the room. You know that the word libro is a masculine noun. You also know that it is singular.

Masculine and Singular Objects

Below is how you would refer to the masculine, singular object libro.

The book near you is	este libro	(this book)
-----------------------------	-------------------	----------------------

The book a few rows away is	ese libro	(that book)
------------------------------------	------------------	----------------------

The book far away is	aquel libro	(that book over there)
-----------------------------	--------------------	---------------------------------

Masculine and Plural Objects

What if there is more than one book in these same locations? The words from the previous page change as follows for the masculine, plural object libros:

The books near you are	estos libros	(these books)
The books a few rows away are	esos libros	(those books)
The books that are far away are	aquellos libros	(those books over there)

Feminine and Singular Objects

Now let's look at a feminine object. Once again, we have three things—one table near you, one in the middle of the room, and one far away. Here are the words you must use for the feminine, singular object mesa:

The table near you is	esta mesa	(this table)
The table in the middle is	esa mesa	(that table)
The farthest table is	aquella mesa	(that table over there)

The table near you is esta mesa (this table)

The table a few rows away is esa mesa (that table)

The table far away is aquella mesa (that table over there)

Feminine and Plural Objects

Let's look at more than one feminine object. The words from the previous page change as follows for the feminine, plural object mesas:

The tables near you are	estas mesas	(these tables)
The tables in the middle are	esas mesas	(those tables)
The farthest tables are	aquellas mesas	(those tables over there)

See the chart below to help you learn what words to use depending upon the distance you are from the object, the number of objects, and the gender of the object.

This, That, These, and Those

Gender	Singular		Plural near you
masculine	este	this one	estos	these feminine	esta	this one	estas	these not near, not far, but midway masculine	ese	that one	esos	those feminine	esa	that one	esas	those far away from you
masculine	aquel	that one (over there)	aquellos	those (over there)
feminine	aquella	that one (over there)	aquellas	those (over there)

Tip to remember:

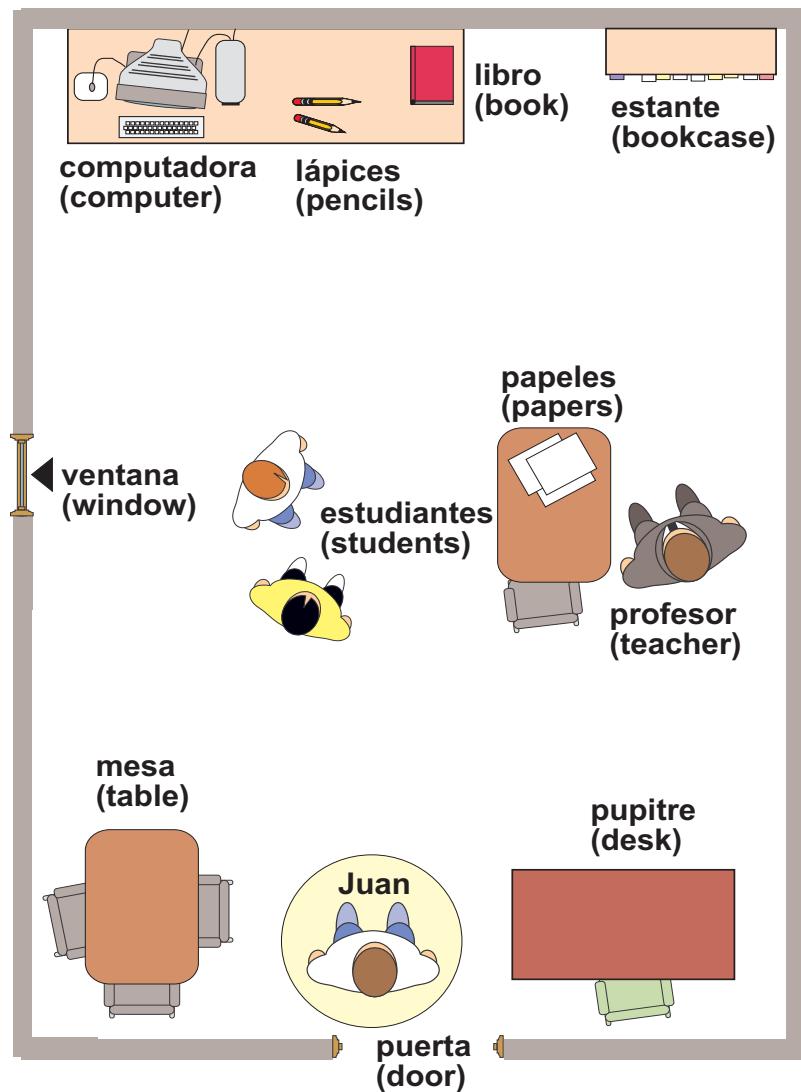

this and these	have a t	este	esta	estos	estas
that and those	don't have a t	ese	esa	esos	esas

Práctica (Practice)

The diagram below shows a room with objects and people different distances from the student Juan. When using the words this, that, these, and those, you must decide on the following:

- the distance between you and the objects
- the number of objects or people
- the gender of the objects or people.

Use the diagram on the previous page, the chart on page 484, and the list below to tell what Juan sees in Spanish. Then read your sentences to your partner.

computadora	libro	profesor
estante	mesa	pupitre
estudiantes	papeles	ventana
lápices

Unit 9: Present Progressive and Direct Object Pronouns

This unit emphasizes the present progressive tense and direct object pronouns.

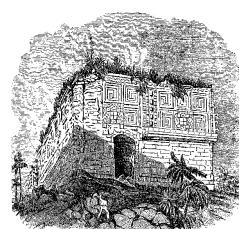

Unit Focus

Communication

- Restate and rephrase simple information from materials presented orally, visually, and graphically in class. (FL.A.2.1.2)
- Understand oral messages that are based on familiar themes and vocabulary (e.g., short conversations between familiar persons on familiar topics such as everyday school and home activities). (FL.A.2.1.3)
- Comprehend and respond to oral messages (e.g., personal anecdotes or narratives) based on familiar themes and vocabulary. (FL.A.2.2.5)
- Provide simple information in spoken form (e.g., descriptions of family members, friends, objects present in his or her everyday environment, or common school and home activities). (FL.A.3.1.1)
- Describe important people (e.g., family members and friends) and objects present in his or her everyday environment and in school. (FL.A.3.2.1)

Comparisons

- Know examples of word borrowing from one language to another. (FL.D.1.1.1)
- Use simple vocabulary and short phrases in the target language. (FL.D.1.1.2)

- Identify examples and understand the significance of true and false cognates (i.e., words derived from a common original form). (FL.D.1.2.1)
- Recognize the similarities and differences between his or her native language and the target language in terms of the pronunciation, alphabet, and forms of written expression. (FL.D.1.2.2)

Unit 9: Present Progressive and Direct Object Pronouns

Overview

When first learning Spanish, you will make mistakes. Making mistakes is normal. However, the more you speak Spanish, the better you will become. We all make mistakes, so don't worry if you make a few—just correct yourself and keep talking.

Try to speak smoothly without starts and stops. This helps others to understand you better. The more naturally you can say the phrases you have learned, the better you will sound. Continue to practice and reuse what you have learned in the other units as you continue to learn more Spanish.

In this unit you will learn the following:

- present progressive tense
- direct object pronouns.

Present Progressive Tense

You have already learned how to say what is happening in the present tense. Spanish has another present tense as well. It is called present progressive tense. What is the difference? Well, present progressive tells what is happening now, as you are speaking.

The present progressive tense does not imply what you do every day, for example, but what you are doing right at the moment. The present progressive tense is the equivalent of is, am, or are doing something.

This is not a difficult tense. The present progressive tense uses the same word order as English. But first, you need to review the forms of the verb estar. These are the is, am, or are parts of this tense. See the chart below.

Present Progressive Tense and the Verb estar—To Be

(yo)	estoy	(I) am
(tú)	estás	(you) are (informal) usted	está	you are (formal)
él	está	he is
ella	está	she is
(nosotros)	estamos	(we) are (all males or a mixed group)
(nosotras)	estamos	(we) are (all females)
ustedes	están	you are (plural)
ellos	están	they are (all males or a mixed group)
ellas	están	they are (all females)

This tense is a compound tense. In other words, there are two verbs. On the previous page, you have reviewed the first part of the verb. The second part depends on how the verb ends as an infinitive.

Remember: An infinitive form of a verb is the same as to + the action in English.

An -ar verb drops the -ar and adds -ando.

An -er or -ir verb drops the ending and adds -iendo.

Study the following sentences. They are examples of each type of verb—estudiar, comer, and escribir.

Yo estoy estudiando. I am studying (right now).

Ella está comiendo. She is eating (right now).

Nosotros estamos escribiendo. We are writing (right now).

The words above in bold are the verbs. The only portion of the verb that changes with the subject is the form of estar.

Note: With the verb estudiar, do not drop the i before adding -ando.

Present Progressive Tense and the -ar Verbs

Let's look at the conjugation of the verb bailar on the next page. Notice only the form of estar changes.

Present Progressive Tense of the -ar Verb bailar—To Dance

Yo estoy bailando.

I am dancing.

Tú estás bailando.

You are dancing. (informal)

Usted está bailando.

You are dancing. (formal)

Él está bailando.

He is dancing.

Ella está bailando.

She is dancing.

Nosotros estamos bailando.

We are dancing. (all males or a mixed group)

Nosotras estamos bailando.

We are dancing. (all females)

Ustedes están bailando.

You are dancing. (plural)

Ellos están bailando.

They are dancing. (all males or a mixed group)

Ellas están bailando.

They are dancing. (all females)

As you can see, the -ando part of the verb remains the same for every subject.

Práctica (Practice)

Below are common phrases using the -ar verb bailar—to dance. Notice that only the form of estar changes. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following sentences using bailando—dancing—in Spanish.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

Yo estoy bailando. I am dancing.

Tú estás bailando. You are dancing. (informal)

Usted está bailando. You are dancing. (formal)

Él está bailando. He is dancing.

Ella está bailando. She is dancing.

Nosotros estamos bailando. *We are dancing.
(all males or a mixed group)*

Nosotras estamos bailando. We are dancing. (all females)

Ustedes están bailando. You are dancing. (plural)

Ellos están bailando. *They are dancing.
(all males or a mixed group)*

Ellas están bailando. They are dancing. (all females)

Now, listen and repeat the sentences again.

Práctica (Practice)

Match each sentence in Spanish with the correct English sentence. Write the letter on the line provided.

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|---|
| _____ 1. Yo estoy bailando. | A. They are dancing. (all females) |
| _____ 2. Tú estás bailando. | B. He is dancing. |
| _____ 3. Usted está bailando. | C. They are dancing. (all males or a mixed group) |
| _____ 4. Él está bailando. | D. I am dancing. |
| _____ 5. Ella está bailando. | E. You are dancing. (informal) |
| _____ 6. Nosotras estamos bailando. | F. We are dancing. (all females) |
| _____ 7. Ustedes están bailando. | G. You are dancing. (formal) |
| _____ 8. Ellos están bailando. | H. You are dancing. (plural) |
| _____ 9. Ellas están bailando. | I. She is dancing. |

Present Progressive Tense and -er Verbs

Now let's look at an -er verb conjugation. As you can see, the -iendo part of the verb remains the same for every subject.

Present Progressive Tense of the -er Verb correr—To Run

Yo estoy corriendo.

I am running.

Nosotras estamos corriendo.

We are running. (all males or a mixed group)

Tú estás corriendo.

You are running. (informal)

Nosotros estamos corriendo.

We are running. (all females)

Usted está corriendo.

You are running. (formal)

Ustedes están corriendo.

You are running. (plural)

Él está corriendo.

He is running.

Ellos están corriendo.

*They are running.
(all males or a mixed group)*

Ella está corriendo.

She is running.

Ellas están corriendo.

They are running. (all females)

Present Progressive Tense and -eer Verbs

Here is an exception to the rule. Verbs that end in -eer change to -eyendo.

Look at the following verbs:

creer creyendo

leer leyendo

Examples:

Yo estoy leyendo un buen libro.

I am reading a good book.

Ella no está creyendo el cuento.

She is not believing the story.

Práctica (Practice)

Below are common phrases using the -er verb correr—to run. Notice that only the form of estar changes. Listen and repeat as the teacher models the following sentences using corriendo—running—in Spanish.

escuchen (listen)

repitan (repeat)

Yo estoy corriendo. I am running.

Tú estás corriendo. You are running. (informal)

Usted está corriendo. You are running. (formal)

Él está corriendo. He is running.

Ella está corriendo. She is running.

Nosotros estamos corriendo. *We are running.
(all males or a mixed group)*

Nosotras estamos corriendo. We are running. (all females)

Ustedes están corriendo. You are running. (plural)

Ellos están corriendo. *They are running.
(all males or a mixed group)*

Ellas están corriendo. They are running. (all females)

Now, listen and repeat the sentences again.

Práctica (Practice)

Match each sentence in Spanish with the correct English sentence. Write the letter on the line provided.

Direct Object Pronouns

How do you figure out what is the direct object of a sentence? First, you must find the subject and verb. Then ask yourself who or what receives the action of the verb. Whatever answers that question is the direct object. Look at the following example below.

Marco lee el libro.

Mark reads the book.

In this example, Marco is the subject (Marco is doing the action). Lee is the verb (reading). Ask what is Marco reading? El libro (book) answers that question. El libro is the direct object.

Here is another example:

Yo visito a mi abuela.

I visit my grandmother.

Yo (I) is the subject; visito (visit) is the verb. Now ask whom am I visiting? The words mi abuela (my grandmother) answers that question. Therefore, mi abuela is the direct object.

Sometimes, however, we do not use a noun for the direct object. Instead we use a pronoun. Look at the first example again. Instead of saying "Mark reads the book," we might say, "Mark reads it." Or we might say, "I visit her" instead of "I visit my grandmother." In order to do that in Spanish, we must use a little different word order.

Remember: Every noun has a gender in Spanish, even things like books, desks, and pencils. There really is no word for it in Spanish. You must take this into consideration. The direct object pronouns you must use are listed below. Study these carefully:

Direct Object Pronouns

lo	him; it (for a masculine, singular noun)
la	her; it (for a feminine, singular noun)
los	them (for a masculine, plural noun)
las	them (for a feminine, plural noun)

When you use these pronouns, they change their place in the sentence. They must now come in front of the verb. In the following examples, the noun will change to a pronoun. Notice the difference.

Marco lee el libro.
Mark reads the book.

Marco lo lee.
Mark reads it.

Yo visito a mi abuela.
I visit my grandmother.

Yo la visito.
I visit her.

Marco lee los libros.
Mark reads the books.

Marco los lee.
Mark reads them.

Yo visito a mis abuelos.
I visit my grandparents.

Yo los visito.
I visit them.

Práctica (Practice)

Part 1

Do the following to each sentence:

- underline the subject once
- underline the verb twice
- circle the direct object.

Modelo (Model): Usted practica el español. _____

1. Ella estudia las matemáticas. _____
2. Nosotros comemos los tacos. _____
3. Ustedes suben el bus. _____
4. Yo compro una bicicleta. _____
5. Ellos venden las casas. _____

Part 2

Now do the following to each sentence on the previous page:

- use the list below to replace the direct object with a direct object pronoun, making sure to notice the gender and number of the direct object
- write the correct direct object pronoun at the end of the sentence on page 525.
- cross out the direct object
- draw an arrow from the direct object pronoun to a place in front of the verb.

la	lo
las	los

Modelo (Model): Usted practica el español. lo

Part 3

Now rewrite each sentence from page 525 by doing the following:

- write the direct object pronoun in its proper place in front of the verb
- do not change the ending of the verb.

Modelo (Model): Usted practica el español. lo
Usted lo practica.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

Práctica (Practice)

Use the list below to rewrite the following sentences by replacing the direct object noun with a direct object pronoun.

la	lo
las	los

Modelo (Model): Preparas la comida. Las preparas.

1. Miran la televisión.

2. Invitan al profesor.

3. Compro los regalos.

4. Comprendemos la historia.

5. Ana y Pilar limpian la sala.

6. Lee las revistas.

7. Comen los sandwiches.

8. Mis hermanos estudian el español.

9. No tengo los lápices.

Práctica (Practice)

Match each subject with the correct form of the verb estar. Write the letter on the line provided. Some forms of the verb estar will be used more than once.

- | | |
|-------------------|------------|
| _____ 1. ella | A. estamos |
| _____ 2. usted | B. estoy |
| _____ 3. yo | C. está |
| _____ 4. nosotros | D. están |
| _____ 5. ustedes | E. estás |
| _____ 6. tú | |
| _____ 7. él | |
| _____ 8. ellos | |

Use the list below to fill in the blank with the correct form of the verb estar written in Spanish.

está	están	estoy
estamos	estás

9. Ellas _____ subiendo.
10. Él _____ bebiendo.
11. Yo _____ abriendo.
12. Nosotros _____ escribiendo.
13. Tú _____ nadando.

Use the list below to rewrite the following sentences by replacing the direct object noun with a direct object pronoun.

la	lo
las	los

Modelo (Model): Invitan al profesor.

Lo invitan.

14. Ella lee el libro.

15. Yo visito a mi tía.

16. Él lee los periódicos.

17. Ellos venden las casas.
